HOWARD H. WIDENER

REAT men die and are forgotten,
Wise men speak ; their words of wisdom
Perish in the ears that hear them,
Do not reach the generations
That, as yet unborn, are waiting
In the great, mysterious darkness
Of the speechless days that shall be!

On the grave posts of our fathers
Are no signs, no figures painted ;
Who are in those graves we know not,
Only know they are our fathers.

LONGFELLOW.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Widener family is of very ancient origin, and may be discovered in very old genealogical and historical works. The beginning, no doubt, was among the early German tribes, but correct and authentic information is lost in the mists of centuries past. The name at the present time is quite common in the Palatinate and Wurtemberg, Germany. A search among the old church records shows the familiar names of John, Jacob, William and Henri, though in the German, but the relationship is only a matter of conjecture. The original and correct spelling is "Weidner," and now is found in the United States and Canada, spelled Widner, Widener, Weidener and Widenor. The better spelling in English to retain the original pronounciation would seem to be "Wide-ner," as in the German the ei is pronounced I. The spelling, "Wid-ner" is liable to be pronounced with the first syllable short and change the name entirely. This spelling and pronounciation is used by some branches of the family.

There are Armorial Bearings recorded of the following families :

Weidner, of Nürnberg, Weidner of Rothenburg (Bavaria), Weidner Von Billerburg (Austria). Also of the following similar names : Widmar, Germany, Widmer of Bale, Widmer of Winterthur, Wiedmer of Saleure, Wiedner of Prussia. (Mr. Leo Culleton, 92 Piccadilly, London, W., can furnish Armorial Bearings of anyone of the above families in the correct Heraldic colors.)

One branch, at least, is known to have settled in Holland ; concerning this branch I have been able to obtain only a limited amount of information. I quote from a letter, which explains itself, "The letter addressed to my brother-in-law Jan William Weidner, 12 Amsdel, Amsterdam, was delivered to me as I am married to his sister Maria Elizabeth and Mr. J. W. Weidner died Feb'y. 8, 1900. He was the son of Wigbold Bathasar Weidner who died at the age of 87 years, and his father was called Jan Weidner and was born in the year 1787. Jan Weidner began his musical career when eleven years of age, was a band master in the army and served under Napoleon and took part in the Russian campaign. Later on he was a music teacher in Haarlen and married Maria Elizabeth Von Harlen. There was born four children, three sons and one daughter. He was a Knight in the order of "Eikenkroon", was very respectable and had a very interesting career." This letter was written in Holland Dutch and was translated with some difficulty, and further stated that the Jan Weidner may have been an uncle to the names I sent, and was signed by Jozna VedElst, Jr., Dealer in wines, 11 Kinderhinsrest, Haarlen, Holland.

The Wideners appear to have been German Baptists and Lutherans and were no doubt persecuted in the fatherland as many of the followers of Luther were, and suffered from the continued state of war that followed the Reformation. The emigration to this country appears to have commenced about 1730, when Penn's. Colony was made a retreat for religious toleration. Weidners have continued to emigrate to the present time. The old families whose descendants appear hereafter came at or about the same time, landed at Philadelphia and settled in the same neighborhood, in one of the original counties laid out by Penn. From the fact that they were neighbors, and in some instances, their land adjoining, it is only reasonable to infer that they were related, but I have been unable to discover what that relationship was, and where there is any tradition or record to show any, it is given.

Many of the Weidners in Germany were men of learning, not a few professors and preachers in the Universities, and many of the Americans still cling to the Lutheran faith, and some are preachers in that church. In only rare instances have any been found, who have changed to the Roman Catholic.

In fraternal societies, many are Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias.

They have served their adopted country in all its wars, and have been truly patriotic ; they were with Washington at Valley Forge, they fought on the frontier in 1812, some went to Mexico in the contest with that country, and died or were killed and went down to unknown graves ; they fought in nearly every battle of the Rebellion on the side of the north, struggling in the Wilderness, wounded upon Lookout Mountain, stood unflinchingly behind the guns at Gettysburg and marched with Sherman to the sea.

In compiling this Genealogy all available sources of information have been consulted for records and facts. All records of Deeds, Administrations and Wills are given in full as far as they throw any light on the subject of inquiry, as they are the only sources of information when the memory and traditions of the living are exhausted. The information contained in this book has been obtained entirely from members of the family and where records are referred to, the records themselves are given. No attempt has been made to establish relationship beyond the memory of the living, except where positive proof appears. The records are given with such remarks and explanations as seem relevant and the reader is left to draw his own conclusions.

But few of the kindred have been able to trace their ancestry beyond their grandfather, and some by their correspondence, seem to assume that he was the ONLY Widener, and that I must know all about him, when the ancestor would be John, Peter, Jacob or William, and nearly all the old families had a son by that name, and I would be given the choice from several of the same name, with no facts to indicate which one. I have deemed it best to give such facts and traditions as I have been able to find and leave the kindred to choose their own ancestor.

The search for these facts have occupied some years and have been collected at odd times during a busy professional life under many disadvantages. All the records have been obtained from professional searchers at considerable expense, and I regret that I am unable to pursue the inquiry further.

I regret the incomplete condition of this book, many of the kindred have failed to respond after repeated solicitations, others have furnished incomplete records and others have not been found and lines of descent have been lost entirely. The records furnished have been copied and compared carefully, but no doubt mistakes will be found. Many of the sketches fail to do justice to the subject, due to the fact that proper information was not at hand. While a majority of the kindred have been uniformly kind and courteous in assisting, some have remained silent and deprived others of their history and acquaintance. The ladies of the family have done very much, and without their aid this book would never have reached its present dimensions, and to them we owe a debt of gratitude. This book is intended to restore the lost links of relationship and make the descendants again acquainted, and as far as possible to advise them of their ancestors, the present residence and address of the living and the last resting place of the dead. The writer has despaired of making this book complete in detail as that would require unlimited time and funds and has determined to publish what has been collected, before it may be lost, and live in hopes that some one may take the subject up and do it better justice. Many have contributed a subscription to aid in the publication, and to each the undersigned wishes to extend his sincere thanks. Nevertheless if this book shall accomplish the design of restoring lost relationship and making the kindred again acquainted, and proving that the Weidners are of good old German stock, typical Americans, loyal to their adopted country and holding their own in all branches of learning, occupations and professions, the labor spent in its preparation will not have been in vain.

In Christian G. Yocher's Universal Lexicon (German) dated 1751, appear the following names. viz ;

Gotfried Weidner, Professor of Medicine at Frankford, Died Apr. 7, 1639.

John Weidner, Overseer at Halle, in Suabia. Scriptural writer. Died Oct. 29, 1606.

John Weidner, Physician and Surgeon, Sprottan. Died 1612.

John Jacob Weidner, Halle in Suabia. Son of last.

*John J. Weidner, Lutherine Theology, born Aug. 11, 1672. Wrote many Latin works. Died Oct. 17, 1732.

John Leonard Weidner, Pro-Rector at Wiemagen, born 1644, wrote a German Work, still lived at 1650.

John Weidner, brother of last. Overseer at Halle, born 1601, died June 4, 1669.

Paul Weidner, a medical man, converted from the Jewish faith, lived for a time in Italy. Birth and death not given. Wrote a work on his own conversion, after being baptised in St. Stephens Cathedral, Vienna, Austria.

*(See Statement of Rev. R. F. Weidner, Chicago.)

Sussex County is the Northwest County of the the State of New Jersey, and was formed from Morris County in 1753. It is twenty-seven miles long and twenty-one broad, and is bounded on the north by Orange County, N. Y. ; east by Passaic and Morris Counties ; south by Warren County and west by Deleware River. The Blue Mountains run through the western part of the county. The county is watered by the Paulinskill, Pequest, Flatkill and other streams. There are numerous small ponds in this county, and a part of the county is said to be good farming land. There were eleven townships, viz ;

Byram, Montague, Vernon, Hardiston, Frankford, Newton, Walpack, Sandiston, Green, Stillwater and Wantage.

There were several German families who settled in Frankford about 1700; among them Isaac and John DeWitt and William Beemer. Newton is now the County Seat. Previously the village of Johnsonburg, Warren County, was the County Seat, which in early times was known as the "Log Jail," from a jail there constructed of logs. The resort and hiding place of Moody and his tories, during the Revolution is said to have been about two miles from Newton.

Among the early settlers of Stillwater, were families by the name of Hunt, Harker and Shafer. About the year 1740, Peter Decker settled in Wantage, where a village sprung up and is now known as Deckertown. Many of the early settlers were of French, German and New England stock.

Warren County, N. J., was formed from Sussex County in 1824 and the early records were removed from Johnsonburg to Newton. There were ten townships, viz;

Franklin, Greenwich, Hardwick, Harmony, Hope, Independence, Knowlton, Mansfield, Oxford and Pahaquarry. Johnsonburg the former County Seat is near the center of the Town of Hardwick, on the old stage road from Newton to Easton, Pa., fifteen miles from Belvidere and ten miles from Newton. The Moravians, a peculiar religious sect, from Germany, were early settlers in the Town of "Hope." "The Great Meadows" are in the Town of Independence. The city of Belvidere is now the County Seat of Warren County, and is said to have been first settled by Robert Patterson. New townships have been created from some of the above divisions.

Many of the stirring events of the Revolution took place in this part of New Jersey and over the Deleware River in the State of Pennsylvania. There are many places along the Deleware of historic interest, especially during the trying times of the Revolution. The Deleware Water Gap, where that river flows through the mountains is a few miles above Belvidere and presents a view of great natural beauty.

A careful examination of the records of the early Swedish settlers on the Deleware fails to disclose any names similar to Widener or any of its variations, though very full accounts are given and a great variety of names appear. The Germans were very early settlers in New Jersey. There were two German churches in New Brunswick, N. J., as early as 1748. (Kalm's Travels.)

In the year 1682, Penn assisted by the surveyor Thomas Holme laid out the city of Philadelphia on land purchased from the Sweads. The province was divided into three counties; Bucks, Chester and Philadelphia, and the three territories; New Castle, Kent and Sussex. Many English had settled about Chester and the waters of the Brandywine; and Germans from Gresheim had settled at Germantown. Between the years 1698 and 1717 the German Baptists, driven by persecution, sought toleration in Penn's colony, and settled in Lancaster, Bucks and the upper parts of Chester County. About this time the Lutheran Germans came in large numbers and settled principally in Bucks and Lancaster Counties.

In July, 1778, occured the attack upon Wyoming Valley by John Butler and his rangers accompanied by a large body of Indians; a large part of the defenseless settlers were killed, the men able to bear arms being in Washington's army. The few survivors fled over the mountains and many perished from hunger and fatigue before they reached assistance. It has generally been supposed that Brant led the Indians, but the best authority seems to indicate that Brant was not present at the "Massacre of Wyoming," as it is generally called in history.

Early settlers doubtless landed at Philadelphia and spread out on either side of the Deleware. The Quakers or Friends were soon outnumbered by the Germans. (Baptists, Lutherans, Moravians and other sects.) The upper parts of Germany in the latter part of 1700 contained many Protestant communities, Moravians, Schwenckfelders, Dunkers or seven day Baptists, Lutherans and Mennonists or German Baptists, who after fleeing in vain from one principality to another to avoid persecution, at last listening to William Penn's offer of toleration, found a permanent asylum in this new land. The news from the early emigrants brought thousands more, and the latter finding the townships around Philadelphia taken up, sought the newer and cheaper lands in the interior. The Dunkers came from Creyfield and Wilgenstein in the Dutchy of Cleves, Prussia. Many of the Germans assumed names translated from their German names, for instance, "Zimmerman" family assumed the name of "Carpenter."

The followers of Schwenckfeldt were persecuted in common with the Moravians and other protestant sects. Frederick of Prussia offered to restore their estates, which had been confiscated in Germany if they would return, but not one returned. These people were originally inhabitants of Silesia. They traveled on foot to the Rhine and reached Philadelphia by way of Amsterdam.

About the year 1796-7 Mr. Williamson of New York, an agent of Pultney opened a wagon road through the wilderness to the sources of the Tioga, for the purpose of rendering Pultney's land in the State of New York accessible to German's and other emigrants coming from Baltimore and Philadelphia ; many emigrants to the Genesee Country came this way. Much trouble, financial loss and several murders were occasioned by the conflicting claims of settlers and the imperfect title to lands in New York and Pennsylvania near the border. Many of the early settlers in this disturbed district lost their money by investing in land before these conflicting and imperfect titles were adjusted. Leonard Widener is said to have purchased over two thousand acres and lost it by receiving a defective title.

No extended description of the Country, Counties and Towns is attempted, except as it may bear upon the history of the family, and offer a reasonable explanation for their presence where we find them. Reference to the map of the States of New York and Pennsylvania, showing the counties, will better illustrate, what has been said, than any further description possibly can. Bucks County, Pa., is not many miles below what was formerly Sussex County, N. J., on the other side of the Deleware, the general course of travel, settlements and the reasons for the same, become apparent when we consult the map in connection with the other known facts.

A story of some interest illustrating early travel on the old "Blockhouse Road" laid out by Williamson is related as follows: "A tavern was kept in the primitive times by one Anthonyson, a sort of half French and half Dutchman. Anthony, according to his own story, had spent most of his life as a soldier, during the stormy times of the French Revolution ; and had thereby neither improved his morals nor his fortune. He made no scruple by way of amusing his guests, of boasting of his bold faced villiany, there was no one of the ten commandments, which he had not broken time and again. With the habits of the old soldier, he had little disposition to get his living by tilling the ground ; and found the military mode of pillage much more to his taste. He raised no oats, but always charged travelers for the use of his stables and for sleeping before his fire, charging a good round price. Whiskey was the staple commodity at his house, serving as meat and drink. Many of the early emigrants to the Genesee country drove their young cattle along this road with them. There was a wide track of some former tornado not far from Anthony's house, in which he had contrived to cut an open space, with a narrow passage into it, making a kind of unseen pen, very much like a Fyke-net used for taking fish. To this spot the cattle of his guests were very apt to stray in the night. In the morning the poor emigrants would hunt far and near for their cattle, with Anthony for their guide ; but Anthony always led them in a hunt through the woods and away from his trap. The unsuspecting guests after two or three days fruitless search, would leave, after paying roundly for their detention and the valuable services of Anthony as guide. The old scoundrel always promised to find the strayed cattle and write the emigrants, but he never wrote as the cattle were never found, but Anthony always had a large supply of what he called "Elk-meat," in his smoke house. When and where he caught Elks was never known and few inquired."

Deed, dated Dec. 28, 1815. Recorded in Deed Book No. 46, page 280,. Conveys 70 acres and 8 P. Subject to dower of Edith Weidner, widow of said Daniel Weidner, deceased.

An abstract of the Will of Peter Weidner of Cumru Township, Berks County shows that he died April, 1759. He evidently had no sons as he devises all his land to his three daughters, Sophia, Salome and Mary with dower therein to wife Susanna. All of his children were under age. Large tracts of land were surveyed to him in 1751 and 1753. Adam Weidner obtained Patents dated Sept. 19 and 30, 1734, for two tracts of land in Oley Township, he was a "Tile-maker" and on Mar. 28, 1744, conveyed 131 acres to Lazarus Weidner, is joined by wife Catherine. See Deed Book "B" No. 1, page 327. Lazarus Weidner and Elizabeth his wife on July 19, 1775, convey parts of this tract to Samuel Lee, ("B" No. 2, page 219.) Samuel Lee and Margaret, his wife, convey a tract to Lazarus Weidner July 24, 1773.

George Adam Weidner of Oley Township, "Tile-maker," and Dorothy, his wife, on Jan. 16, 1739, (Deed Book No. 6, page 380) convey 53 acres in Oley Township with a one-half interest in a fulling mill and saw mill thereon to William Pott :— Land patented to George Adam Weidner by Thos. and Richard Penn, Jan. 20, 1736. The land conveyed by Lazarus Weidner in 1775, adjoined land of "Tychicus" or "Techicus" Weidner.

George Adam Weidner, a Menonist of Oley, Phila. County, was qualified, that is, took the oath of allegiance to Great Britain under the Act of General Assembly of 1727, on April 13, 1743.

(Penn. Archives 2nd Series Vol. II, P.306.) The Will of George Adam Weidner of Eastern District of Berks County was proven Sept. 4, 1780, and letters were granted to his son John and brother Lazarus Weidner, the executors named therein. It mentions a wife but not by name. Mentions seven sons and five daughters but not by name. Son-in-law Benedict Moyer and Grandson George Adam Weidner.

Will of Tichycus Weidner of Oley, dated Sept. 5, 1798, proven Aug. 8, 1799, mentions sons, Jacob and John and daughter Hannah Weidner, to whom specific legacies are bequeathed and the residue to following nine children ; Catherine, Esther, Susannah, Mary, Peter, Jonathan, Christian, Hannah and Daniel.

The only Weidners I have found on the lists of Germans naturalized belonged to this Berks County family.

Three of them were naturalized at one session of Court at Philadelphia, to wit ; "Adam Widenar" "George Adam Widtner" and "John Widtner" all of Philadelphia County, on April 13, 1743, this was before the organizatien of Berks County and Oley being on this side of Schuylkill was in Phila. Co. "George" Weidner, Lazarus Weidner and "Dichius" Weidner were naturalized April 10, 1761, the two latter like the three first named appear in the list of those who affirmed and George in that of those who did not object to taking an oath. George or "Jerick" Weidner, aged 41, arrived in the ship Hope, Daniel Read, Master, and was qualified Aug. 28, 1733. "Jacob Weidmer," "Andreas Widmer" adults, and Elizabeth Widmer, Marget Widmer, Anna Widmer, and Jacob Widmer "Women and children" appear on the list of passengers of a ship in 1735.

The Will of Catherine Widener of Cocalico Township, Lancaster Co., Pa., is registered in Philadelphia; she was doubtless the mother of Peter Widener of Cumru Township, Berks Co., who died in 1759. Cocalica Township bordered on Cumru Township, the latter lying directly southeast of Reading and originally extending to the line of Lancaster County. The will is in substance as follows :

"The 22nd day of September, 1742, I, Catherine Weidner in the County of Langaster and Township of Cokaligo, witue, being week of body, etc.

I do nominate and apoint as my solle executors of this my last will and testament, John Henry Calckgleaser and my Toughter Trifena.  I gif to my son Henry Widener 12 P., twelve pounds, for all I had reason to give him lease because he was disobedient after his fathers death and by his own will went from me and made himself to be his own master several years befor the law giveth him to be free.  I give thirty pounds to doughter Trifena. *****

Peter Weidner as the ealtest of my sons living with me at present time to have the new house as his own, for his help to me as a father to his junger brothers and sisters,—the house is not builded yet but shall be builded hereafter. Residue of estate bik and small goots and land to be divided into three ekal parts and go to three junger sons, Peter to have fist choice if he hould to his two junger broders till they are in full age, that is his junger broders Jacob and Isaac. Signed by mark.

Witnesses : John Henry Hagerman, Leonard Keil and Johannes Hildebrand. Proved by them at Cocalico before Conrad Weiser, Esq., by authority of Peter Evans, Register General, Feb. 18, 1742-3.

John Gerhard Weidner, son of Henri and Catharine Elizabeth Weidner was baptized Aug. 8th 1757, and Maria Catherine, daughter of same was baptized June, 9, 1754. Jacob, son of Jacob and Susannah Weidner was baptized May 19, 1754, sponsor Peter Weidner and Regina. Johan Henri, son of Peter and Susannah Weidner was baptized Apr. 14, 1781, Sponsor Heinrich Weidner. Margaret, daughter of same, Feb. 17, 1794, and Johannes, son of same was born Jan. 21, 1791. All at Germantown.

The Will of Theobald Gert of Lancaster Co., dated Apr. 22, 1770, proved June 13, 1770, mentions wife Magdalena, children John, Theobald, Engilina, wife of ——— Weidner, Magdalena, Catharine, Margaretta and Elizabeth, grandchildren, CATHARINE and MICHAEL WEIDNER.

I have been unable to ascertain who was the husband of Catharine Widener who died in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, in 1742. The land she devised to her sons, Peter, Jacob and Isaac was conveyed to her as "widow" by the name of "Catherine Whitner" by Andreas Scroop and Isabella his wife, on Dec. 24, 1736. It contained one hundred acres and allowance. On August 16, 1750, Henrich Widener and Catharine his wife, and Jacob Widener and Barbara his wife, "said Henrich and Jacob being sons and legatees of Catharine Widener" —here the will is recited,— convey the 100 acres devised by the will, to Peter Widner, Isaac Widner, and Christian Mosseman, their, the said Jacob and Henrich Widner's several shares therein.

On Oct. 9, 1751, Peter Widner and Susanna, his wife, and Isaac Widner, convey their respective interests therein to Christian Mosseman. There is nothing of record in Deeds, Wills or Administrations to show who was the father of these parties.

Henri Weidner and wife Catharine Elizabeth, who had children, "Johan Gerhard" and Maria Catharine baptised at Germantown, in 1754 and 1757, and the Jacob Weidner who had son Jacob baptized in 1754 correspond with the above children of Catharine the widow. Peter Weidner was sponsor of these baptisms. The Peter Weidner (wife Susanna) who had three children, Henry, Margaret and John, baptized 1781, 1784 and 1791, respectively, was probably son of Henry, as "Heinrich Weidner", appears as sponsor. It is a mere coincidence that his wife's name corresponds with that of his aunt, the wife of his uncle Peter, who died in 1759. There is a Deed of record at Reading, Berks County, from Jacob to Isaac Weidner.

Emigration to the Genesee Country.

Sullivan's Expedition.

It is natural to inquire for and ascertain the cause of the emigration to the Genesee Country. (The Indians called it Chinnesee.) The people must have had some knowledge, obtained from personal observation or information from travelers, that would lead them to forsake their old homes and seek an abode in the west.

The expedition of Sullivan against the Indians in 1779, is worthy of record, with reference to the settlement of the Genesee Country, as it seems to furnish an answer to the inquiry. This country before the expedition was wholly unknown, except to Butler's Rangers, notorious Tories and their allies, the Indians. Ebenezer Allen, better known as "Indian Allen" lived on the Genesee River, and kept a resort for Tories and a trading-post for Indians, profiting by their atrocities, and living with several squaw wives. He wisely moved to Canada, when settlers came.

To repress the hostilities and avenge the barbarities of the six nations and Tories, the massacres at Cherry Valley in New York, and Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania, Congress recommended, and General Washington adopted vigorous measures in 1779.

General Sullivan was ordered to march into the Indian country and to destroy their villages and lay waste their country. Morgan's Riflemen and Captain Michael Simson's Company joined an army of 1500 men under the command of General Sullivan in the spring of 1779 at Tioga Point. Fighting commenced at once, and the Indians and Tories were driven westward, many being killed, their villages burned and the country devastated.

The army reached Kanadesago, now Geneva, which was burned, continued west by way of Canandaigua, Honeoye and Hemlock Lakes and camped on what is now known as Henderson Flatts, at the head of Conesus Lake, which was as far west as the expedition proceeded. Here occured the capture of Lieut. Boyd and a large number of his party, who were out scouting. Boyd was taken to Beards-town, near Moscow, where he met Brant, who commanded the Indians. Boyd appealed to Brant as a Brother Mason to save his life, and Brant assured Boyd that his life would be spared ; but the Indians, in Brants absence put Boyd to death. History respects Brant for his fidelity to the order, as he is reputed to have been a Mason. (See history of Free Masonry and Concordant orders, 1897, page 255.) The story of Mary Jemison the "White Woman," gives an interesting account of this region, with its Indian history and Sullivans expedition. The Indian accounts do not seem to agree with other accounts. Sullivan's army returned the same way it came, having inflicted much injury upon the Indians and Tories. The soldiers of Sullivan's army could not have failed to appreciate the country through which they passed. There were long level tracts in some places, fertile valleys and a long succession of ridges in others, all covered with dense forest, abounding in game. Beautiful lakes and winding rivers had been crossed and partly explored. A country of far greater resources and possibilities than they had ever seen before. All this and much more was impressed upon the minds of the soldiers, and as a large part of the army was composed of farmers, they no doubt determined to possess a portion of this new promised land as soon as the opportunity was offered, which came about the year 1790, when the country was offered for sale.

Samuel Widener, Peter Widener, Henry Widener and Michael Widener were soldiers of the Revolution serving in Pennsylvania and New Jersey companies, and either were with Sullivan on his expedition or learned of the Genesee Country from comrades. A Mr. Sheffer appears as one of the early settlers of Warren Co., N. J., from where the Wideners probably came. The Sullivan expedition without doubt was one cause of emigration.

Sketch of Monroe County, N. Y.

Monroe County was formed from Ontario and Genesee Counties, February 23, 1821, and contains about 682 square miles. The County Seat is located at Rochester. The first County Officers were, Elisha Strong, Timothy Barhard, and Joseph Spencer, Judges; James Seymour, Sheriff; and Elisha Ely, Surrogate. The first Court House was built in 1821, the second in 1852, the present structure stands upon the site occupied by the former buildings, and is one of the finest buildings in the State, being finished in marble and mahogany.

The territory now comprising Monroe County was a part of the hunting-grounds of the Seneca Indians, although it contained none of their principal villiages. The region was frequently visited by French Missionaries and explorers, but no permanent settlements were made until after the Revolution, when there seems to have been a general movement to the westward. The County was embraced in the Phelps and Gorham purchase.

The tract west of the Genesee River, about twenty-four miles long and twelve miles in width, was called the MILL tract. Messrs. Phelps and Gorham explained to the Indians the great benefit that would arise from having a mill at the Genesee Falls, and for this consideration they sold this tract west of the river for a MILL YARD. It will be observed that a large part of the country west of the Genesee River was included in the Mill Yard, and the three towns west of the river belonged to the Triangle tract.

Ebenezer Allen, an Indian trader and notorious Tory was the first settler, who located upon the flats on Allen's or Oatka Creek, near the present Village of Scottsville. He kept a large stock of cattle and had considerable land under cultivation at one time. He erected mills on the present site of Rochester in 1788-9, having received land from Phelps and Gorham for that purpose ; he subsequently removed to Canada. A man by the name of Walker built a log cabin at the mouth of the Genesee River, where he lived for several years and then returned to Canada. An early map of all this region engraved in London, has upon it no sign of any habitation on the lake shore between Oswego and Niagara except the picture of a log cabin at the mouth of the Genesee, and under it the word "Walkers."

John Lusk emigrated from Massachusetts with his son and hired man in 1789 and purchased a large tract near the head of Irondequoit Bay. Peter Shaeffer and his sons Peter and Jacob came in 1789, and purchased 470 acres of Allen, paying $2.50 per acre, a high price for that time. Settlers came slowly down the Genesee River : the land was covered with dense forest and the low lands were a fruitful source of fevers. The only roads were Indian trails, one extended from the mouth of the Genesee to Fort Niagara along the lake shore, another from Canawagus, north to the mouth of the Genesee. Peter and Jacob Shaeffer laid out a road from Oatka Creek to the Falls of the Genesee in 1792, and bridged the streams with logs, so that it became passable for teams in the winter of 1793-4.

In April, 1797, all the region between the Genesee River and Lake Erie was organized into a separate town of Ontario County, called Northampton. The first Town Meeting was held at the house of Peter Shaeffer. Josiah Fish was chosen Supervisor, and Eli Granger, Town Clerk. At this time there were only three road districts in the town, all on the river, as there were no roads leading into the interior, later, others were created at Leroy, Greece, Caledonia and Buffalo. It seems strange to think that Buffalo was once in the same town as Rochester. The first general election was held in April, 1800, and the successful candidate for Congress, Mr. Thomas Morris, received 37 votes.

The first road recorded was that from Braddock's Bay to the distillery of Stephen Peabody, a short distance below Shaeffers. This road is still known as the Braddock's Bay Road. The main road from Utica (Fort Schuyler) to Buffalo crossed the Genesee at Avon (New Hartford) by the only bridge over the river. This occasioned an extensive settlement in this locality, while a large tract, of which Rochester is now the center, was an unknown wilderness. A few persons however penetrated northward between Avon and Lake Ontario about 1788. In 1792 the road from Geneva to Canandaigua was an Indian path and the same from Canandaigua to Avon. The trail from Avon extended westward to what is probably Batavia, where it divided, one going to Niagara by way of Buffalo and the other by way of Tonawanda.

From the foregoing, it will be noted that persons coming from the east at about this time must have traveled by way of Geneva, Canandaigua and Avon, and those intending to stop along the Genesee, must have come from Avon northward, toward the mouth of the Genesee. It would be only natural that the bolder and more venturesome traveled on toward Niagara and even into Canada. Emigrants from New Jersey, doubtless came by way of the Deleware Water-gap, Tioga Point and Elmira, taking the main trail at Geneva to the west. This is without doubt the reason that we find Wideners in Canada, whose ancestors emigrated from New Jersey, some settling by the way on the trail from Niagara to Detroit. As the Wideners do not appear to have settled in only one part of the County, the Town of Chili, their early associates will be given in the short description of that town. The natural way was for them to have come over the trail above mentioned, down the river to the residence of Shaeffer and located from there, as they all appear to have come about the same time, though Leonard Widener was probably the first.

John Maude made an overland trip on horseback by way of Geneva, Canandaigua and Avon to Niagara Falls in 1800. He describes the country from Geneva to Avon as dense forest with few settlements. He was much astonished at the great number of squirrels in the woods, also frequently seeing grouse and many birds new to him. He expresses surprise after crossing the Genesee at Avon when he beheld the treeless plain of tall waving grass, known as the "flats." He stayed over night at Shaeffers.

He describes his host as a "respectable farmer," having about 800 acres of land purchased from Indian Allen. Maude made the trip from Shaeffers to the Genesee Falls, nearly loosing his horse when crossing Black Creek on a pole bridge. He visited the Falls, Hanford's Landing and the lake, returned to Shaeffers and continued his journey westward. Maude afterwards returned to England, where he published a journal kept by him of his daily travels, which gives a very interesting account of the country as it then existed. (See "Visit to Niagara" by John Maude, 1800.)

Town of Chili.
Monroe County, N. Y.

The Town of Chili was formed from the town of Riga, February 22nd, 1822, one year after the formation of Monroe County. Riga was formed from Northampton in 1808, it then being a part of Ontario Co. Chili is a large township, the eastern boundary being the Genesee River, extending from the river westward about six miles, and about the same in width, from a short distance north of Scottsville to the south limits of the city of Rochester.

The River Road runs along the west shore of the Genesee River, the entire width of the town, and probably has the same general course as originally laid out by Shaeffer. The Braddock's Bay Road remains the same to-day as first opened turning easterly in the south part of the town, towards the river. The "Checkered Tavern" was on this road, famous in new country days. Town meetings and social events were held here, as well as being a resort for travelers and the settlers for miles around to hear the news and gossip. Quite a little village sprung up around the place, with several stores and shops, but with the advent of railroads and other more direct routes of travel, nearly every trace of this thriving little place had disappeared ; a neat cottage marks the place where stood this famous old hostlery and the generation of today scarcely ever hear it mentioned, unless by chance some old resident refers to it, in relating the anecdotes of his father.

The first settlement was made by Joseph Morgan in 1794. Andrew Wortman came in 1794. Stephen Peabody and Col. Josiah Fish in 1795. Morgan's farm adjoined Shaeffer's farm. Fish's farm was at the mouth of Black Creek. Leonard Widener and sons came about this time and bought some 460 acres of land north of Col. Fish on Little Black Creek. There was a saw-mill on this stream in early times. Henry Widener and sons Henry, William and Daniel came about the same time or shortly after the arrival of Leonard. Henry and Peter purchased land in the center of the town, on or near the Braddock's Bay Road. Jacob Widener and his brother Peter also came at this time and settled on Mill Creek, near the present village of Clifton, where they purchased large tracts and built a mill, they were half-brothers of the second Henry. Probably at about the same time John Kimball came with his family, Prudence Kimball, a daughter of John, having married the second Henry Widener. Joseph Carey probably came at the same time and was the builder of the first mill in the town. Joseph Wood and family, Samuel Scott, Benjamin Bowen and Joshua Howell were among the early settlers. James Chapman kept the first store in the town in the year 1807.

The early deeds of conveyance to the Wideners and others are given, as the data therein mentioned serve to fix dates and establish other interesting facts conclusively.

These early settlers came over the trail from Geneva by way of Canandaigua to Avon and down the Genesee River. When the road from Canandaigua to Rochester was opened, settlers came that way as being a much shorter route. The Kimballs, Wideners, Careys and Woodens, apparently came from New Jersey about the same time. Wooden had married Sarah Widener in New Jersey and Carey married the sister of the second Henry. The Wideners bought land near the water courses of the town, and evidently followed the streams toward their source or traveled the Braddock's Bay Road westerly from its junction with the River Road. All showed good judgment in the choice of location, as regards the soil and roads, choosing the gravelly ridges with fertile valleys. The town was covered with dense forest, except the river flats, the ridges with beech and maple, occasionally pine and hemlock. Game was abundant. Wolves and bears were frequently unwelcome visitors. Panthers prowled in the swamps. The Virginia or red deer were numerous. Elk and Moose do not appear to have inhabited this region, probably for the reason that the Indians had been frequent hunters in these forests and they preferred safer retreats. The town abounds in Indian relics, there were old forts, and arrow and spear heads of flint and stone axes and tomahawks are often found. Trout inhabited the streams and wild turkeys were occasionally seen. The shorter trail directly to Buffalo, known as the Buffalo Road was next laid out.

Deed, dated Nov. 13, 1810. Conveys 50 acres. Recorded, Liber 1, page 483.

MONROE COUNTY SURROGATE'S RECORDS.

Petition filed in Monroe County Surrogate's Office, January 22, 1834, by Jacob Widener, shows that Peter Widener died at the Town of Chili, January 14th, 1834, unmarried and that his father and mother were dead, and that Jacob Widener was his brother. The petition asks for Letters of Administration, and the bond filed was signed by Henry Widener. (The name there appearing spelled as above and not Widner.)

Josiah Bissell to Joseph Carey.

Deed, dated Aug. 10, 1820. Conveys 100 acres. Recorded, Liber 4, page 494.

Cornelius C. Six to William Wooden.

Deed, dated May 15, 1820. Conveys 71 acres. Liber 4, page 460.

I am unable to find the name Weidner, Widener or Widner, appearing on the records or Indices of Seneca Co., N. Y., in any way, prior to 1800, and but once subsequent to that date, when I find the name of Leonard Widener and Martha his wife, in a Deed from him to Robert Troup, in 1810.

John Widener and Sally his wife, Frankford, Sussex Co., N. J., to Daniel Carey, Chili, N. Y.

Deed, dated Feb. 19, 1842. Conveys land in Chili, N. Y.

Extracts from an address delivered by Hon. Geo. S. Conover, Dec. 22, 1879, before Waterloo Library & Historical Society.

Entitled,

"Echoes of Seneca Lake, or the Reminiscences of a Centenarian."

On the 25th of October, 1879, John Widner (son of Leonard) celebrated his centennial birth-day at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Rebecca E. Stewart, Rochester, N. Y. The Rochester Union in speaking of the event said of him, "in appearance he is a man yet in good health, with a likelihood of living several years to come. He is a man slightly above the average height, with a ruddy complexion, clean shaven face and hair as white as snow. But he looks no older than does many a man of eighty and there is a freshness about his complexion indicative of his general good health that many a man of fifty might envy. He became blind some time ago, and is somewhat hard of hearing, but in every other respect he has his faculties and talks intelligently on common subjects."

John Widner was born October 25th, 1779, about a mile from a place called Johnsonburg in Sussex, now Warren County, New Jersey. In the year 1786 his father, Leonard Widner, went to Newton (Elmira) and there purchased 2100 acres of land of the "Lessees" making a payment of all the money he had with him and that not being sufficient, he also added his horse, saddle and bridle. While there he cut and piled some brush, cut his name into a tree and made such other marks as to indicate that the land had been sold. He then returned to his home in New Jersey and commenced preparations for a final removal; this consumed much time and it was not until the Spring of 1788 that he was ready, at which time he removed with his family, goods and live stock. Arriving at Newton he was surprised to find that his land was in the occupation of another person and that his title was worthless. Finding an empty log house he moved his family into it, and as soon as they were settled with some degree of comfort, he proceeded to Geneva, at that time known only by the Indian name of Kanadesaga. Upon looking around a little he decided to locate there ; after cutting a large quantity of the native grass, that he might have a supply for his live stock, he returned to Newton and removed his family and stock to Kanadesaga. Arriving there in about four months from the time he left New Jersey. He had brought with him to Newton, four horses, two colts, eight cows and some hogs ; one of the cows had been stolen and killed by the Indians at Newton, but the rest he succeeded in getting safely to Kanadesaga. On his route, in moving from Newton, he arrived at Catherinestown, (Havana) four miles up the inlet from the head of Seneca Lake. There he made arrangements with a man by the name of King, who owned a four handed bateaus, to take his family and goods including his wagon, which was taken apart for that purpose, down the lake to Kanadesaga. This bateaus continued to ply on the lake for many years, doing a successful business.

On his arrival, he lodged his family for a short time in an Indian hut made of bark, but before winter set in he was enabled to put up a log cabin, in which his family lived for two winters. This location was near where Tillman's Tannery was in later years. On account of depredations of the Indians, his live stock soon began to diminish in number, the next spring only three cows were left. Two of his horses were employed by some surveyors as pack horses, but from bad usage and starvation, they were soon dead. A mare and colt being stolen by Indians, a belt of wampum was sent to Butler, who recovered the animals, but through some mistake or misunderstanding they were turned over to Brant or some of his Indians, instead of being sent back to Kanadesaga, and Mr. Widner never saw them again. His other horses were likewise all stolen or lost, and the entire stock of horses that he had brought with him were gone.

At the time of the advent of the Widener family at Kanadesaga, John was about nine years old ; there were but few families then living at the place, of whom he recollects, Peter Bartle, Elark Jennings and Horatia Jones. Jennings was keeping a log tavern at the foot of what was afterwards, and is yet known as Colts Hill.

The farm occupied by some Frenchmen was formerly the site of an Indian town, which had been destroyed by the army of General Sullivan, Sept. 8, 1779. More than one hundred acres had been improved from time immemorial, so long, that the stumps had rotted away, and there were many old apple trees, some a foot and a half in diameter. The first Court of Oyer and Terminer ever held in Ontario County, was held at Patterson's Tavern in 1793, Judge John Sloss Hobart presiding ; town meeting was held there in 1795, and Sept. 20, 1791, Elkanah Watson and his party stayed there over night and wrote of the place, that, "we received decent accomodations at Pattersons, but our repose was troubled most of the night by gamblers and fleas, two curses of society."

Among the early inhabitants remembered by Mr. Widner were Major Benj. Barton and Joseph Annin, who were surveyors, a man by the name of Butler, who was the first carpenter. Dr. Adams was the first physican, Gilbert R. Berry, a silversmith who made brooches for the Indians ; he did not stay long, but removed to the Genesee River (Avon) where he erected a log house, kept a tavern, established a ferry and opened a trade with the Indians at Canawaugus. He died in 1796 or 7, and his widow continued keeping the tavern for many years, the "Widow Berry's" tavern becoming a noted house of entertainment for travelers and famous as a house of good cheer.

After living at Kanadesaga two winters, in the spring of 1790, the elder Widner built and moved his family into a log house near the outlet to Seneca Lake. The Widner family being located at the outlet in what is now Waterloo, the elder Widener established a ferry, which was kept up until the country become populated, when a bridge was built. This ferry was known far and wide as "Widner's ferry."

The boat first consisted of an Indian "dug out" canoe and could only carry passengers. In the course of three or four years a carpenter by the name of Platt came along, and a larger boat was built which could ferry over more bulky articles.

At the time of the removal of the Widner family to the outlet, the remains of the old bridge were plainly visible. At this spot the army of Sullivan crossed in 1779. It was commonly talked in those days that the bridge was built by Sullivan's army. According to the journal of one of the officers of the army, Sullivan's army passed around the lake on the afternoon of Sept. 7, 1779.

According to the documentary history of the State of New York, Vol. II., page 714-726, the old castle, situated near this place was built by Sir William Johnson as early as 1756. Mrs. Col. Samuel Campbell, one of the prisoners taken at the Cherry Valley massacre was a captive at Kanadesaga the winter previous to the invasion of Sullivan's army. She speaks of the kindness and interest manifested in her behalf by Guyanguahta or Grahta, the old king who did not reside in the villiage, but near the outlet. She says that notwithstanding that he was so aged, that he did not join in the war, yet he performed a journey on foot to the Genesee on her behalf, and obtained the consent of the family, to whom she had been promised, for her freedom, and that before her departure for Niagara he came up from his residence near the outlet of Seneca Lake and bade her an affectionate farewell.

This aged sachem was sometimes called "old smoke" for short, for "he carries the brand" being the only one in authority who could light the council fires of the Senecas.

James and William Wadsworth came west in the year 1790, (Turners Phelds & Gorham, page 326,) James by the water route and William with his oxen and cart. In the yerr 1800 an Act was passed, making the State or Great Genesee Road a turnpike, from Utica to Geneva and Canandaigua.

On the Widener familys first arrival in the country their only resource for bread was the stump mortar. The elder Widner burnt out a hollow place in a stump and a pounder was suspended by a spring pole, and with the use of this, two or three quarts of corn would soon be pounded into a course meal, which made a nutritious and wholesome bread. A mill however was soon built on the Canandaigua outlet. Mr. Widner made several trips to this mill on horseback, along the Indian path by the old castle, through Flint Creek near Vienna (Phelps) passing the Sulphur Spring (Clifton.) In the month of June, 1808, John Widner having become the owner of some land in the Town of Chili, Monroe County, he removed there, but as it was nothing but a howling wilderness, he returned to Seneca County in 1809. But he finally removed to Chili in 1823, where he spent the remainder of his life.

The following manuscript was furnished by Adelaide Atkinson Cheney.

"Fragments of History of the family of our Maternal Ancestor,
—STEPHEN ATKINSON,—
By his Granddaughter, Our Mother as dictated by her, to, and written by our brother, Josiah Gorgas
At Louisville, Stark County, Ohio,
A. D. 1840."

(Compiled and re-written by Solomon Atkinson Gorgas from his Manuscript.)

Stephen Atkinson was a Scotch-Irishman, who in his youth came to this country, an immigrant with William Penn, himself belonging to the society of which Penn was a member and the head. (Gilbert Cope, the Quaker Genealogist, thinks that Stephen Atkinson came to this country an infant with his father, the dates of the births of his children would signify such to have been the case, his son Thomas having been born in 1751. I believe the father of this Stephen was named Stephen.) —Adelaide Atkinson Cheney.

Stephen in early manhood came into that part of Pennsylvania now called Lancaster County, and in time came into possession of considerable property in that part of the country. Subsequently he purchased a farm on the Conestoga, near Lancaster City, where he resided until his death. (According to Gilbert Cope he went to Lancaster City where he died.) In 1718 he had a fulling mill on the Conestoga, and in 1730 he was Overseer of the Poor.

He was buried in the "Friends" burial ground in the City of Lancaster. Matthew, son of Stephen, was twice married, the second time to Margaret Thornberry, (Thornborough) also a Quaker. By his first marriage he had one son, Stephen, the issue of his second marriage, were three daughters and four sons, viz ; Matthew, Wilton, Thomas, Robert, Hannah, Anne and Margaret.

On the demise of the father, Matthew, the eldest son Stephen came into possession of the bulk of the estate, he died early, leaving an only daughter and unborn child (see will of Stephen) also named Stephen. Through the misconduct of the administrator, the infant son Stephen was disinherited, and the property passed into the hands of the Ross family. The descendants of this Stephen now reside in Carrollton, Carroll County, Ohio. (1840.) His wife was one of the Hollidays of Hollidaysburg, Penn. Stephen Atkinson had five children, viz ; Stephen, Matthew, Isaac, Thomas, Mary and a daughter who married a Mr. Jenkins of Chicago, (Colonel Wilton Atkinson Jenkins, of 329 Michigan Ave., is a son of the latter.) Robert, the eldest son of the above mentioned Isaac was a very capable man, of great energy of charactor, whose eldest son, Robert, was third Auditor of the Treasury Department of the United States, through the Pierce, Buchanan and two years of the Lincoln Administration. Stephen Atkinson lived for a time in Huntington County, Penn., and also in Indiana. (In 1835 my mother and father took up their abode for a time at Carrollton, Ohio, living next door to this same Stephen and his family, where upon a visit to my parents it was my privilege to meet this cousin of our mother. From him I was pleased to find a corroboration of some of the facts above mentioned.—S. A. G.)

Matthew, the next son removed to Washington County, Penn., where his descendants now live.

Wilton had several sons, one of whom, an eminent jeweler, now lives in Baltimore, Maryland, two of them settled at Charlestown, South Carolina. They also had two daughters who married two brothers, by the name of Styger of Baltimore, Maryland. In the records of St. James (Episcopal) church, in Lancaster, Pa., is found the marriage of Wilton Atkinson to Ann

Mary Le Roy, April 24th 1762.

Robert, the youngest, married a young lady of Pittsburg, Pa., by the name of Hughes, he removed to Baltimore, where he resided until his death. He left a widow and two children.

Nancy (Ann,) the eldest daughter, married a Mr. Davis of Lancaster County, Pa. They had two sons, both of whom died in the Indian war at St. Clair's defeat, one of whom, the younger, was captured and tortured by the Indians.

Hannah was married to a Mr. Brown of Lancaster, Pa., who left her a widow with several children, she supported herself and family by teaching a school. One of her sons, David, became a printer, and after a time the family removed to Philadelphia, Pa.

Thomas Atkinson, probably the third son of Matthew, according to the custom of the time, thought it expedient to become a tradesman, learned Architecture and Building. He was a man of most respectable acquirements, such as to fit him for all the ordinary calls of business. In person he was eminently prepossessing. At an early age he went to Reading, Pa., where he married SALOME WIDENER (or Weidener) daughter of Peter and Susan (Gitter) Widener of Dutch descent. (At 12 Amstel, Amsterdam, resides a J. W. Weidener, who may be connected with the American branch.) Her father was the owner of one thousand acres of the most valuable land about Reading. (The town of Sinking Springs is built on land formerly owned by Peter Widener, as well as the land on which the Reading Poor House now stands.)

Peter and Susan Widener had three daughters, viz; Sophia, Salome and Mary, and a son John (perhaps others) who went to Virginia. Sophia, the eldest daughter, married John Boone, by whom she had three children, viz: Hannah (b. Nov. 1765,) James (b. Jan., 1769) and Susanna (b. May 1st 1771.) John Boone was born 1745, died 1770, and was the son of James Boone and Mary Foulke, of Exeter, Berks Co., Pa. Upon the death of Mr. Boone she became the wife of John Biddle, son of William Biddle and Mary Scull. John Biddle during the Revolutionary War acted as commissary to some part of the Pennsylvania troops, until about the time of the battle of Brandywine, when suspicions of treasonable practices rested upon him, he went to Nova Scotia. Upon his flight his property was confisicated and sold. Mr. Biddle never returned to his native land. His wife, Sophia, revisited her home in Pennsylvania and applied to Governor Mifflin for her husbands pardon, which he refused, but bade her welcome to the state. They had two sons and four daughters, viz ; Edward, James, Sophia, Lydia, Sally and Mary. Sophia in 1840 married a Mr. Michael F. Cassily, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia is married to a Mr. DeFord and lives near Pittsburg, Pa., where her hurband has extensive salt works. Edward married an Indian at Macinac, Michigan, where his descendants still live. James married a Miss Mc Michol of Pittsburgh, Sally became Mrs. Andret Boggs, and Mary died unmarried.

Mary Widener, the third daughter, was married to Daniel Cunningham Clymer, a lawyer of high standing and wealth. He was born in Philadelphia, April 6th, 1748, and having at an early age lost his parents was brought up by his uncle, General Roberdeau. He had three children, viz ; Anne, William and Edward.

When Salome Widener (wife of Thos. Atkinson) was four years old her father died and after a short widowhood, her mother married a Mr. Whitehead, then an attorney at law, who was the son of Penelope Biddle (daughter of William Biddle and Lydia Wardell Biddle) and Mr. Whitehead. Two daughters were the fruit of this marriage, viz ; Elizabeth and Penelope.

Elizabeth was married to a Captain Pry from the east, an officer of the United States Army during the Revolution. Captain Pry, like many other disbanded officers was much embarrassed in pecuniary matters and had no fixed means of support. After about a years union Captain Pry died, much lamented by his wife, his pecuniary embarrassments drove him to commit suicide.

About eleven years after the death of her husband, Elizabeth married a Mr. Wentz of Lancaster, Pa. At one time he was a member of the Legislature of Penn. After this marriage they removed to Middletown, Penn., where Mr. Wentz died. About two years after the demise of her husband, a gentleman by the name of Colonel Taylor, from Seneca County, New York, happened to be in Middleton, and took such a fancy to her at first sight, that he determined in his own mind to marry her, and seeking the intercession of a friend, and without further personal courtship, her consent was obtained and in short time they were married. Disposing of her property, she at once accompanied him to his native place on the shore of Seneca Lake, seven miles south of Geneva. After about twelve years she was again left a widow for the third time. She continued to live in the same beautiful home until her death, which occured at the advanced age of seventy-four. She had but one child, and it by her first husband, it died in infancy.

Penelope Whitehead married her cousin John Whitehead and removed to Philadelphia. He was engaged in mercantile business in that city up to about the beginning of 1812, when in consequence of some unfavorable war measure, and having a large quantity of flour on hand, he failed. About this time Penelope died, and with the remnant of his effects Mr. Whitehead removed to Meadville, Pa., where he taught school. They had thirteen children, James, one of the sons, was a frequent visitor at Lyons, N. Y., at the home of Philip Dorsheimer, about the years 1832 to 1835, and also much of his time at his aunt's, Mrs. Colonel Taylor's on Seneca Lake.

Having disposed of the collateral branches of the family of Thomas Atkinson and Salome Widener, we proceed to pursue their own fortunes. He, Thomas, was born about the year 1751, and his wife Salome on the seventh day of January, 1755. They were married at Reading, Pa., about the year 1772, where they continued to reside until after the war. At this time Salome came into possession of her patrimony, being one third of the one thousand acres before mentioned, of which her father was possessed, and this they farmed. During their residence here they had two children born to them ; Betsey (Elizabeth,) afterwards the wife of Major General Hibshman of Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pa. General Hibshman was associate judge of Lancaster County for nine years. In 1818 he was member of Congress for the Counties of Lancaster, Labanon and Dauphin. He died at Ephrata, May 9th, 1852, aged 80 years. A sketch of his life may be found in the Biographical History of Lancaster County by Alexander Harris, (1872) page 308. Elizabeth and Jacob Hibshman had six children, viz ; Edward, Lydia, Eliza, Henry, Amy and John. Elizabeth Hibshman, wife of Jacob, died May 4, 1811, in the 38th year of her life. John, son of Jacob and Elizabeth, was born Mar. 7th, 1807, and died Oct. 15th, 1871, aged 84 years. Lydia, daughter of Elizabeth and Jacob, died January 3rd, 1869, aged 72 years. Amy married a Mr. Grey. Sophia (our mother) was also born in Reading, but of this branch of the family more hereafter.

About the middle of the Revolution on account of the uncertain tenure of property, and the oft-times gloomy forebodings of the great struggle, they became anxious to sell their property and accordingly disposed of it to General Mifflin (Subsequently Gov. Mifflin) and received pay therefor in continental money. The money so received as is well known, soon became wholly worthless, so that the amount received for their valuable land was lost. As an instance of their misfortune and loss, Mrs. Atkinson at one time paid three hundred dollars of this money for one barrel of sugar. At the time of deeding this land Salome was yet a minor, and consequently her signature conveyed no title. For a long time people buying land in Sinking Springs could not obtain a clear title to their land. My Grand-father Thomas Atkinson was frequently urged by lawyers of ability to recover the estate, but refused to do so, arguing that the tenants had purchased the land in good faith and should he dispossess them, it would render hundreds homeless. (A. A. C.) During their residence in Reading, Thomas Atkinson served in the army of the Revolution, and was at the battle of Brandywine and

Yorktown. He was commissioned second Lieutenant of the Fifth Company (Reading) of Fourth Battalion of Berk's County Militia, May 17, 1777. Colonel Nicholas Lotzi Regiment, John Heister Company (a relative of Salome Widener.) (Pennsylvania Associators and Militia, 1775-83, Vol. 11, page 269.)

Mr. Atkinson's farm team was impressed into the service of the needy government, and used until after the battle of Yorktown, for which no compensation was ever offered. The team was a total loss.

About the close of the war Mr. Atkinson removed to a place called Silver Springs, above Mechanicsburg, Pa. Here they lived four years, and here another child was born to them, named Sarah, who married Frederick Albright, whose son was Senator Albright (Albrect) of Cambridge, Ohio. The latter, whose name was Charles cast the first Republican vote in the American Congress. (According to Gilbert Cope, Thomas Atkinson was in Bucks County in 1768. From the records of the Sadsbury Meetings it is found that Thomas Atkinson was a member there previous to 1768.) From this place they removed to a farm on the Juniata on the State Road from Sunbury to Carlisle at the mouth of Raccoon Creek. Here they lived four years, and here had two more children namely ; Matthew and Thomas. Matthew, the former mentioned child, had twelve children, eleven of whom died of consumption. Matthew died at Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 7, 1860, in his 79th year. On account of the dangerous condition of the country, which was then the frontier and far west, they disposed of their property to Matthew, Thomas Atkinson's brother, and removed to Maryland, and lived at Thomas Creek Valley, about twenty miles from Littlestown. Here Mr. Atkinson (our grand-father) followed his vocation of architect and builder. His first employment was on a house for Major Shields, Mr. Blair and others. They lived here four years, at the end of which time they moved to Baltimore, Md. Here his first work was done on a house for Mr. Martin, an attorney. Soon the family removed to the country seat of Mr. George Lux called "Chatsworth," about a mile from the city of Baltimore. Catherine, the daughter of Edward Biddle and Elizabeth Ross (daughter of the Rev. Mr. Ross) was the wife of George Lux, she was also related to the Widener family. About this period Mr. Atkinson undertook the work of placing pillars under the Court House in that city, and excavating a passage-way for the public street under it. He had had a severe spell of fever which confined him for three months. Mrs. Lux was a relative of Mrs. Atkinson and was instrumental in their removal to these parts and whose good offices were much needed during the sickness of her husband.

After the recovery of Mr. Atkinson, he contracted for, and built the Jail and Market Place at Alexandria, Va. Shortly after this he sent for his family and had them conveyed to Alexandria. They went thither by water, and during the passage ran upon a sand bank and were delayed three days, when they were taken off by another vessel, the passage occupied four days. At Alexandria they lived five years. Afterward they removed to within four miles of Alexandria, where they enjoyed the intimate acquaintance of the Lees, Charles and Henry, being near neighbors. Penelope (who became the wife of William W. Boyer of Harrisburg) was born in this place, they had several children, among which was one son, Widener Boyer, who died in Sept., 1894, in Harrisburg and is buried in the same cemetery in which lie his grand-mother, Salome Widener Atkinson and his mother, Penelope Atkinson Boyer.

At this point (four miles from Alexandria) was also born Susan who afterwards married William Fremole of Harrisburg, and who, upon his death became Mrs. Dr. Cutting. Susan Fremole had several children among whom were Salome who married and went to Virginia to live, Mary (Mrs. Benjamin Olewine) one of whose children, a son is now living in a small village, called Coxestown, situate about three miles above Harrisburg, and Penelope who was born July 7, 1808, and died Jan. 6th 1812.

Removing four miles further into the country, Mr. Atkinson rented a farm of several hundred acres from Dr. Hawkins, but did not make a success of farming. From here they removed to Loudoun County, about twenty-three miles from Alexandria. Here his health failed him very much and he had to conduct his business of building entirely by hired help. This was about the year 1793. At this time he had a mill under contract for a Mr. Broadwater. Becoming dissatisfied he proposed to Mrs. Atkinson to return to Pennsylvania, that she should take five of the children, leaving him the remaining two, and proceed to settle herself somewhere in Pennsylvania, that he would follow with the two remaining children as soon as he finished his contract, and obtained its reward. She did so, and made her way on horseback with her children to Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pa. He had promised to follow in six weeks. Mrs. Atkinson waited the appointed time and an additional time, and yet no husband came. Becoming uneasy, she mounted on horseback and retraced the tedious way she had made to where she had left him. She found all well, but the contract was not yet finished, Mr. Atkinson could not yet go, so another horse was bought, the two remaining children mounted upon it and our grandmother resumed her way homeward with them, with the promise from her husband to join her in a few weeks. The three weeks elapsed, and another three weeks, and still another and he came not. In about six months a letter came from an old neighbor, a Mr. Bird, bearing to her the melancholy news of his death. Mrs. Atkinson joined the society of "Dunkards" or "Bretherin" at Ephrata, and being now a widow with seven children found herself very dependent and had to resort to most rigid economy to support herself and and family. Her two sons, Thomas and Matthew were placed with printers. The two eldest daughters, Betsy and Sophia were taken by relatives. Mrs Atkinson after spending the winter at Ephrata removed to Reamstown and engaged in teaching school. She afterward married a Mr. Boyer and died in Harrisburg, Pa. Her son Thomas Atkinson was married to Sarah Sommers in Harrisburg, Pa., by the Rev. Mr. Peterson, March 4, 1804. She was the daughter of Leonard Sommers and Elizabeth Philippe, and niece of Jacob Sommers, whose daughter married a Dr. Duhring of Philadelphia. Dr. Valentine Mott Francis, a son of Dr.

Wakefield Francis is now living on Rhode Island Avenue, Newport, R. I.

Thomas Atkinson and his wife "Sally" removed to Meadville in the fall of 1904, and in 1805 issued the first number of the "Crawford Weekly Messenger," the pioneer newspaper of western Pennsylvania. The editorial leader in the first number published on the second day of January, 1805, announced the paper to be republican in its politics, but that its columns will be open to all who think their principles or political connections injured, as freely to one side as the other, with the wholesome restriction that the discussion should be liberal, candid and decent. This commendible rule seems to have been observed for the first few numbers of the newspaper, but shortly after when the contest began to increase in warmth between the friends of Mr. Snyder and Governor McKean, we find the political essays in the Messenger marked with the same bitter personalities which mar and disfigure similar contests at the present day. Such, however, was not the character of the editoral matter. The editor, himself, was of the most mild disposition. Regular files of the Journal have been preserved, and were devised by Mr. Atkinson to his son, Dr. Monroe Atkinson, who still retains them. At the time the "Messenger" was first printed, the paper on which it was published had to be brought from Pittsburg on horseback. The first volume of the "Messenger" contains a history of the contemporaneous events of any interest, foreign intelligence, the Congressional and Legislative proceedings, the impeachment and trial of Joseph Chase, and the Judges of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, of the times when the assertion of popular rights was carried far towards the verge of ultraism, and when new social, civil, commercial and political relationships and interests springing up, developed individual and modified old habits and opinions and made almost every man in the community a student of law, and an incipient, if not real professor of the science of legislation. (Hist. Ass'n of Penn.) From the Messenger of 1830 we gather an important fact in reference to the press first used in that office.

Mr. Atkinson says, "In a note of the editor of the 'United States Gazette' referring to the ancient village of Ephrata, situated in Lancaster, Co., this state, the fact is noted that one of the first printing presses introduced into this state was located at that village. As a small item of history connected with our profession we have to add that the identical press in question became the property of the editor of this paper in the year 1804."

He caused the wood to be renewed, and removed it to Meadville in the fall of that year. It was the first printing press introduced in this state west of the Allegheny Mountains and from which the first sheet was issued in this region. All the Continental money issued by Congress while at Lancaster and York during the Revolutionary War was struck upon it.

Mr. Atkinson continued editing the "Messenger" until his death, which occured in 1837. During his life in Meadville he was a most highly respected and useful citizen. From 1820 until 1832 he was Treasurer of the County and served in the Legislature from 1826 until 1836. Mr. Atkinson together with John Alden started the first Sunday School in Meadville, and was one of the principal founders of Allegheny College, of which college his son Monroe was a graduate. Eleven children survive him, viz.; Thomas, Francis, Laeah, Henrietta, Eliza, Salome, Sophia, Sarah, Augusta, Adelaide and Monroe.

Traditions and Statements.

From William Henry Harrison Widner, Carlisle, Pa.

"We have a tradition that early in the 18th Century three brothers named Widner emigrated from Germany and settled in Pennsylvania, and that the Weidners, Wideners and Widners of North America are their descendants."

From Mrs. Mary Dingman, Rochester, N. Y.

"My grandmother, Mary Clackner (probably Calckgleaser) was a German woman of education in her native language and had many German books, which she frequently read and seemed to prize very much. My father and mother returned to New Jersey to visit their relatives, when I was a child and as I remember they had numerous relatives there."

Statement of Jacob Widener made to his son Peter Widener, of Chili, Monroe Co., N. Y.

That his family came from New Jersey to the State of New York about the year 1800. That nearly all of his relatives had moved to the vicinity of Harrisburg, Pa. Jacob also said that his grandfather came from Germany.

This statement is of importance for the further reason that the Jacob making this statement was upwards of 90 years of age at the time of his death and had a personal knowledge of his kindred.

Mrs. Sarah Biddle Boggs furnishes the following Tradition.

"Some one of my ancestors (male or female) was born in a foreign land, probably Holland or Germany, and was of a family of the Nobility, or family closely connected with the ruling family of that land. A civil war was in progress and all the family were killed except this child and the old nurse brought this child to "America."

This person used to tell how he or she remembered one scene of its childhood, which was firmly impressed on its mind, and that scene was, while a battle was taking place around the home in the foreign land, the nurse who was hiding with the child in the attic, walked to the window with it and the sight of the fighting and bloodshed made such a deep impression on the child, that it never forgot it."

Adelaide A. Cheney.

Miss Hannah Widener, late of Rochester, N. Y., (daughter of John Widener, son of Leonard Widener) told a story of similar import, but not in detail. H. H. W.

Statement made by George Thomas Widenor, January 3rd, 1897, and reduced to writing by his son John Widenor, of Scranton, Pa.

"My Great Grandfather, Henry Widenor, probably born during the Revolutionary War, had two brothers, William and John, both probably older than my great grandfather Henry. William lived and died in New Jersey. John lived in Ontario, Canada. During the War of 1812, he was taken prisoner, broke out of prison and came to New Jersey and visited his two brothers. In 1824 Henry moved to Canada and took all his family excepting his oldest son, [my grandfather] who was born in 1801. William left three sons, and two daughters, that lived here. Also two sons, who went to what is now Scranton, Pa. Those that lived here, [Belvidere] are all dead, viz ; Abraham, James and Henry, one John whose P. O. address is Hazen, N. J., is a son of James. Abraham's family lived at Port Colden, N. J. Father's family consisted of four sons, Henry, George Thomas [my father,] William Thomas, now of Inland, Nebraska, and John Thomas, now of Scranton, Pa. Some five or six years ago my father corresponded with one N. C. Widener of Simcoe, Canada, who was at that time 80 years of age ; and he wrote that Henry was his uncle. Quite extensive branches of the famiiy live in Philadelphia, also in Bucks County. Name correctly spelled Weidner, but variously spelled Widener, Widner and Widenor."

Mr. A. B. Widener makes the following statement as to the spelling of the name, "Widenor" by his father George Thomas Widenor, which explains the spelling by this branch of the family.

"We notice that you spell the name correctly. Father's brothers spell it the same way. He explained this, by saying, when he first went to school, the teacher asked him to spell his name, not knowing how, he spelled it for him, and used "O" instead of "E" and so it has continued with our branch."

It will be observed that Mr. John Widenor in commenting on what his father told him refers to his own great grandfather and not his fathers. The record of deeds printed show three brothers, John, William and Henry, whose father was Henry. We also observe that in 1802, we find two brothers releasing their interests in their father's estate, which would indicate quite certain, that their father Henry was dead, whose wife was probably Catherine. William received the interest in the father's estate. The above statement corresponds with the record of the deeds in all respects, except as to dates, which are more modern than the record will permit. As to Henry moving to Canada, this is impossible, as he died on or before 1800, and the Henry referred to must be the one who came on the old road via Canandaigua to Chili, Monroe County. The Modern Canandaigua, is not spelled as it was in those days, but Canadaqua, and persons not acquainted with the name could easily mistake it for Canada.

REV. R. F. WEIDNER, CHICAGO.

The general tradition is that the family traces back to the emigrants who came over from 1720-1732, coming from the Palatinate. One of my ancestors, Johannes Weidner, was pastor in Germany at St. Ulrich, and published a book on the Augsburg Confession, printed at Ulm in 1732. * * * * * Since 1825 certain families all of Penn., German origin, like Blank, Braining and Weidner have been closely related and have often intermarried.

"I was informed that some twenty years ago there was living at Belvidere, N. J., a Mr. Widener, who reported that three brothers had come to this country from Germany, about 1730-1740; that one settled in New Jersey, one in Montgomery County and the other in Berks Co." [See page 11.]

Revolutionary War.

The records of the War Department show, that one Samuel Widner or Widener served as a sergeant in Captain Thomas Church's, also known as Captain Samuel Smith's, Company 5th Pennsylvania regiment of foot, commanded by Colonel Francis Johnson. His name appears on the Company rolls covering the period from May 1, 1777 to December, 1778, which bear the following remarks: "Appointed Jan. 1, 17—, enlisted Nov. 20, 17—, term, war ; time when joined, Apr. 20, 17—."

The records also show that one Peter Widener served as a private in Captain Thomas Boude's, also known as Captain James Taylor's Company, same regiment as Samuel. The name appears on the rolls of the Company from February, 1778, which shows that he enlisted for the war, and on one date, March 3, 1780, he is reported "taken prisoner the 25th of Jan., at Elizabethtown."

The Adjutant General's office of the State of New Jersey has a record of Henry and Michael Widenor as Privates, Minute Men, in the Sussex County, N. J. Militia, during the War. (A certificate of such service can be obtained from the Adjutant's office and would entitle holders to join the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution.)

Here should be mentioned Maj. Gen. Jacob Hibshman, who was born in Lancaster, Pa., and married Betsey Elizabeth Atkinson, daughter of Salome Widener. He was also Congressman from Pa., from 1819 to 1821.

John Weidner, son of George Adam Weidner was a farmer at the time of the Revolution, and was commissioned Lieutenant May 10, 1780, of the 7th Co., 6th Battalion Berk's Co., Militia, commanded by L't Col. Joseph Heister, afterwards Governor Heister.

Thomas A. Atkinson also served in the Battalion of Colonel Heister and was at the battle of Brandywine. Mr. Atkinson was the husband of Salome Widener.

There are doubtless others whose names I have overlooked or have not found.

The name of Frymon Vidnor appears as an enlisted man in the Tryon County Militia (N. Y.)— "New York in the Revolution" as published by James A. Roberts, N. Y., State Comptroller, 1898.

President Pays a Tribute to the Worth of German Citizens of the United States.

(Nov. 19, 1903.)

President Roosevelt received in the east room of the White House about 150 representatives of the German societies of Washington. The delegates called to announce the opening of their celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Germantown, Pa., and to ask him to participate in it. After a short address by Mr. Voelckner, of the societies, President Roosevelt addressed the delegates as follows:

Mr. Voelckner and Gentlemen: It gives me peculiar pleasure to greet you to-day, and it is a matter of real regret to me that I cannot attend formally your celebration.

You are quite right, Mr. Chairman, when you speak of the stand that the German element in our citizenship has always taken in all crisis of our national life. In the first place, from the beginning of our colonial history to this day, the German strain has been constantly increasing in importance among the many strains that go to make up our composite national character.

I do not have to repeat to you the story of the early immigration to this country—the German immigration that began in America towards the end of the seventeenth century. Allow me to give you one bit of ancestral experience of mine. The first head of the New York City government, who was of German birth, was Leisler, in about the year 1680. He was the representative of the popular faction in the New York colony of that day, and among the Leislerian alderman was a forbear of mine, named Roosevelt.

You are entirely familiar, of course, with the German immigration that went to the formation of Pennsylvania from the beginning. That element was equally strong in the Mohawk Valley in New York; it was equally strong in Middle and Western Maryland.

For instance, in the Revolutionary War, one of the distinguished figures contributed by New York to the cause of independence was that of the German Herkimer, whose fight in the Mohawk Valley represented one of the turning points in the struggle for independence; and one of the New York counties is now named after him. The other day I went out to the battlefield of Antietam, in Maryland. There the memorial church is the German Lutheran Church, which was founded in 1768, the settlement in the neighborhood of Antietam being originally exclusively a German settlement.

There is a list of its pastors, and curiously enough a series of memorial windows of men with German names—men who belonged to the Maryland regiment recruited largely from that region for the Cival War, which Maryland regiment was mainly composed of men of German extraction. In the Civil War it would be difficult to paint in too strong colors what I may well call the all importance of the attitude of the American citizens of German birth and extraction towards the cause of union and liberty, especially in what were then known as the border states.

It would have been out of the question to keep Missouri loyal had it not been for the German element therein. It was the German portion of the City of St. Louis which formed the core of the Union cause in Missouri. And but little less important was the part played by the Germans in Maryland and also in Louisville and other portions of Kentucky.

If it were proper in addressing a body representing various creeds and shades of religious belief I should ask you all to attend services next Sunday at my church, which happens to be the German Reformed Church. They have not a Dutch Reformed Church here, so I go to the nearest to it.

Each body of immigrants, each element that has thus been added to our national strain, has established something of value to the national character, and to no element do we owe more than we owe to that element represented by those whom I have the honor of this day addressing.

I believe that the New Jersey Wideners belong to the Lancaster Co., branch, (No. 1.) The Catherine, wife of Henri would correspond to the Catherine mentioned in the deed at page 16, and the Quit-claim deeds show an attempt to settle the estate of their father Henry, but do not mention Catherine. The wife of Henry or Henri is said to have been "Clackner" probably "Calckgleaser" (P. 22.) The Will of Mr. Gert mentions Grandchildren Catherine and Michael Weidner. There are living people who know of traditions handed down upon good authority that Michael was a relative both of Henry and Leonard who emigrated from New Jersey, though from the date of the birth of Leonard he would appear to be much older than Henry, and the only Leonard Widener appearing of record is a son of John Weidner, Bucks Co., (No. 4.) Some traditions say that Leonard was a brother of the Henry above mentioned and others that he was related, but the relationship is not known, and still others that they were cousins. If they were cousins, and the Leonard who emigrated to Chili was a son of John of Bucks Co., then the husband of Catherine (No. 1.) and John Weidner of Bucks Co., were brothers. But there is room for argument and doubt, and each one can study the situation and come to his own conclusion.

Explanation.

I am aware that the plan adopted in the following arrangement is not after the most approved method, but there being so much doubt about the relationship of the old families, and so few being able to tell to which branch they belong, I have taken the ancestor as far back as the people have been able to go, and placed the descendants in the natural order commencing with the eldest of the family each time and completing the record down to date. In no case are the descendants so numerous that any one will become confused or lost in the matter of relationship, but can easily trace any one of their immediate relatives.

JOHN WIDNER.

JOHN WIDNER, married Elizabeth Bacon. He emigrated to Canada from New Jersey prior to 1800, and settled near Simcoe, where he was a farmer. He served in the War of 1812 on the side of the British and was taken prisoner by the Americans and confined at Greenbush. He escaped by digging under the wall and made his way to New Jersey where he spent some time with his relatives. He afterwards returned to Canada to find that during his absence two of his children had died. Elizabeth Widner died at Simcoe, Ont. Sept. 9, 1829, aged 53 years. (The records of this branch were made by Miss Sarah A. Widner, Aylmer (West), Miss Orpha V. Widner, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Widner, Simcoe, Ont. Some of these descendants prononnce the name "Widner" and others "Widener." John Widner died at Simcoe, Ont., May 27, 1839, age 67 years. Buried at Windham Cemetery, Ont.

JEREMIAH WIDNER, born June 2, 1808, at Simcoe, Ont.; son of John Widener and Elizabeth (Bacon) Widner; education, public school; married Ann Pomeroy, of Charlotteville, Mar. 20, 1834; farmer; church, Wesleyan Methodist; politics, Conservative; Church Steward and School Trustee. The following obituary of the late Jeremiah Widner appeared in "The Christian Guardian" [Toronto] on July 14th, 1880:

"Nothing of note occured in the life of Bro. Widner until the year 1831, when, under the labors of the late Rev. Henry Wilkinson, he was soundly converted, and at once united with the Wesleyan Church. In his case was fulfilled in a most striking manner the words of Paul: 'All things have become new.' The prayer and class meetings, as well as the more public means of grace, were always times of refreshing to his happy soul. He was married to Miss Ann Pomeroy in 1834, and to the day of his death looked back to that event as having taken place under the guiding hand of God. As life advanced, he found more and more the force of the words of the wise man: 'Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing.'

In 1838 Bro. Widner came to Malahide [then a new and wild country.] He was soon appointed steward in the young and struggling Wesleyan church at Aylmer, where he rendered most efficient service until failing health caused him to retire. He was a member of the first Trust Board of our Church here, and survived all his brethren who took office with him.

He took the first number of the CHRISTIAN GUARDIAN, [and the family take it still.] I need not say he prized it. He was one of the first subscribers to the Cobourg Academy. He was an unassuming, pure-minded, earnest christian. He was strongly attached to the Methodist Church, and her ministers were always welcome at his home and fireside. He lived to see the dense forest give place to a rich farming country, and the small membership and congregation at Aylmer become large and influential. None more delighted than he to see the old dilapidated church give place to the spacious and elegant structure now occupied by our congregation.

Our brother had been poorly for some two years, but for the last two months failed rapidly, and died in great peace May the 21, 1880, and was buried the Sabbath following. An unusually large number of people attended the funeral, and listened to words of comfort from Proberbs 14th chapter, last part of 32nd verse, after which we laid his lifeless form to rest in the quiet burying ground south of the town. He leaves a widow trusting Christ, and six grown children, most of whom are in the narrow way. May we all meet above!"

Died at Aylmer, Ont., May 21, 1880, age 71 years. ; buried at Aylmer Cemetery, Ont.

ANNA WIDNER, born Sept. 7, 1800, at Geneva, N. Y.; daughter of John Widener and Rebecca (Bradner) Widner; education, common school; married Cornelius K. Van Riper of New Jersey, Sept. 13, 1821; Presbyterian; he Democrat; husband's business, contractor and millwright.

Cornelius Van Riper was born in N. J., Dec 17, 1799; after the birth of the first child at Geneva, N. Y., Mr. Van Riper moved his family to Chili, N. Y., at which place six children were born to them. In the Spring of 1834, the family moved to Plymouth, Wayne Co., Mich., where Mr. Van Riper engaged as a millwright and erected a mill for his uncle, Mr. Wm. Bradner. After the completion of the mill Mr. Van Riper removed with his family in the fall of the same year to Goshen, Ind., where the younger son Charles Henry died during the winter of 1835-6. From this place the family went to Peru, Ind., where Mr. Van Riper took work on the Wabash and Erie Canal, then in the process of construction and built two locks, one at Peru and another at Wabash. Here he made the acquaintance of Mr. Sutherland, another contractor, and together they undertook the construction of a branch from Terre Haute to Bowling Green. The work was paid for according to estimates made by Inspectors or Commissioners and a part of the contract price retained to guarantee the fulfillment of the contract. About this period the panic or "Wild-cat" times commenced, money was scarce and depreciated, larger per cents were retained, and finally after desperate efforts the contractors were compelled to abandon the work. All the profits in the work were covered by the amounts retained and they lost their work and what they had invested, which practically ruined them financially. Mr. Van Riper then removed with his family to Wayne Co., Mich., where he had relatives on his wife's side. Here he purchased a farm of 90 acres of the General Cass estate, near the head of Lake Erie, where their younger daughter was born. This was a wild country at this time and Mr. Van Riper commenced over to make his fortune. Here occured the death of Anna Widner, his wife, she is buried in the Cemetery at the village of Gibralter. Mr. Van Riper was a staunch Democrat until the passage of the Fugitive Slave Act, which was so shocking to his intelligence, that he lost faith in the, then Democratic Party. After the death of Mrs. Van Riper the family became separated and Mr. Van Riper died Apr. 23, 1886, at the residence of his younger daughter, Escanabe, Mich.

Died at Gibralter, Mich., June 6, 1856, age 56 years ; buried at Gibralter, Mich.

Y. The Rev. James Newell Grace was born in St. Clair, Mich., 1864. He graduated from the St. Clair High School. He was in business a few years in Michigan and Colorado, took a special course in the Denver University, came to New York and entered the Union Theological Seminary, from which institution he was graduated with the Class of 1889. His first charge was the Presbyterian Church at Keyport, N. J. He then served as pastor of the South Broadway Presbyterian Church of Denver, Colo., the First Presbyterian Church of Idaho Springs, Colo., and the Woodhaven First Presbyterian Church. The Woodhaven Church is in Brooklyn Presbytery, where Mr. Grace is now closing a successful pastorate of about five years. This church has much improved. Many souls have been converted, some of the debt has been liquidated and the income of the church considerably increased. Mr. Grace has the joy of leaving it when its prospects for the future are very hopeful. His people very much regret his resignation and have put forth strong efforts to persuade him to remain.

Richard P. Hubbard was descended from Revolutionary stock and was born in Salisbury, Conn., July 25, 1813, son of Josiah, whose father was a sea captain. The father of Richard P. Hubbard married Sarah, daughter of Elisha Stanton who was a Revolutionary soldier and one of Washington's aids. Mr. Hubbard came to Chili, N. Y., in 1838, where he lived nearly his entire life and died June 22, 1895. He commenced life with no assistance, except his personal ambition and a strong body, and his industry and good judgment soon won for him its reward. In 1866 he purchased a farm of 366 acres at North Chili, where he lived until his death. This home is beautifully situated, being surrounded by fine trees and artificial and natural ponds. The homestead is now owned and occupied by his son Richard P. Hubbard, Jr.

LEONARD WIDNER, JR., born 1786, in New Jersey ; son of Leonard Widner and Martha (Thorpe) Widner. Lived in Chili, on the farm deeded to him by his father, and at the outbreak of hostilities in the war of 1812, he went to the Niagara frontier, where he was killed Aug. 27, 1814, by a stray cannon ball, and was buried at the place where he fell with other soldiers in an unknown grave. His wife traveled on horseback to Buffalo to recover his body, but failed. She and the children in his absence to the war resided in Chili in a log house without doors and windows, and were obliged to keep a fire burning out of doors to keep away wolves. The mother tied the baby in the cradle and raised both to the cross pieces while she went to the spring.

BENJAMIN WIDNER, born June 17, 1794, at or near Geneva, N. Y. ; education, common school ; married Margaret Taylor of Richland Co., O., Nov. 1818 ; farmer ; Methodist ; Military Record, War of 1812.

Died at Adams Co., Ia., Feb. 14, 1866 ; buried at Methodist Grove Cemetery, Adams Co., Ia. Margaret Taylor Widener died June 26, 1863, buried at Van Buren Co., Ia.

There is a tradition in this family that the father of Benjamin came from Germany, as it is said that the German language was used at home. The three older brothers made an overland trip to California with an ox team, starting from old Fort Des Moines. Reason died of mountain fever in California. The other two, returned by way of Cape Horn to New York, and moved to Iowa. A tradition mentions brothers Leonard, Michael and Cornelius, and a sister, Mrs. Morecroft. See pages 18, 23, 36 and 61.

Note.—The family of Leonard Widener lived at or near Geneva, and is the only one of which any record has been found, living there. William W. Wooden, who is a grandson of Leonard, thinks he remembers of hearing of an uncle Benjamin. There was a Michael Widner, a relative of Leonard; this Benjamin may have been a son of Leonard, though no well authenticated record appears ; this branch is placed in a separate group for that reason.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE THOMAS WIDENOR.

For more than a year past George T. Widenor has been in declining health. Though he was able to get about and was quite active on foot till near the time of his sickness, he has not been able to conduct business for a year or more. Hd died Monday night, having been in a very weak condition several days before the end came.

George Thomas Widenor was born near Roxburg, this county, October 27, 1827, and was desended from Henry Widenor, a sturdy German who came to this country in 1750 and first settled in Middlesex county and soon after moved to Johnsonburg, this county. The father of our subject was John Widenor and his mother's maiden name was Miss Thomas, belonging to a Thomas family that was among the early and substantial settlers of this vicinity.

When quite a small boy George Widenor came to Belvidere and lived for many years with the late Lorenzo Houseworth, then a successful shoemaker in the town. From Belvidere he went to Easton where he learned the shoemaker's trade. In 1848, when he had reached his majority, the country was excited over the discovery of gold in California and young America was stirred by a spirit of wild adventure. The young shoemaker did not fall into the eager rush for the gold fields, but went to New Bedford, Conn., and joined a whaler's crew and started on a three year's voyage, on which he rounded Cape Horn, touched Honolulu, worked for a short time as a shoemaker on the Hawaiian Islands, landed at Manila and sailed to the Behring Sea. They captured several whales and at one time had three tied alongside of their vessel. He was a thoughtful observer, and this eventful voyage, in which he saw a great variety of life, civilized and uncivilized, gave to his active mind a broad horizon. His fund of information on general and local subjects was remarkably large and accurate. In 1851 he returned to Belvidere and worked for Mr. Houseworth at shoemaking till 1856 when he formed a partnership with A. B. Searles, and they, as the firm of Widenor and Searles, carried on the shoemaking business on the corner of Water and Market streets, in the place recently occupied by Fred Lowenstein. Jacob Trester bought out Searle's interest and Widenor & Trester conducted business till 1869, when Trester retired and Widenor carried on the business till 1891, when his son, George Widenor, Jr., entered into partnership with him, which continued until failing health compelled the father to retire. At the outbreak of the Rebellion in 1861, he was commissioned as Captain to raise a company, but for some reason did not go into active service. He was elected a member of the Common Council of Belvidere in 1878 and in 1888 was elected Justice of the Peace and filled the office so well that he was re-elected for another term in 1893. He was an active member of the M. E. Church for fifty years, was an earnest temperance worker during that time, and had been a member of Covenant Lodge, No. 13, I. O. O. F., for thirty-three years. Mr. Widenor was a man of rare intelligence, sterling character, a good citizen, and a consistent Christian, respected and honored by all who knew him.

GEORGE T. WIDENOR PASSES AWAY.

AN OLD AND PROMINENT CITIZEN DIED AT HIS HOME ON MONDAY.

George T. Widenor, for many years a resident of Belvidere, passed quietly away on Monday evening at his home on Water street, aged 74 years and 14 days. In his demise the town has lost a citizen whose long career of usefulness will long be remembered. The progenitors of his branch of the family came from Germany in the year 1770, landed in Philadelphia, settled in Middlesex county, N. J., and later removed to Frelinghuysen township. Several members of the early Widenor family fought in the Revolutionary War. The subject of our sketch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Widenor who resided in Oxford township, and was born Oct. 27, 1827. When twenty years of age he embarked on a whaling vessel, rounded Cape Horn, crossed the Pacific Ocean and first touched Honolulu, Sandwich Islands. There his captain and crew remained a short time. This was the period of the gold strike in California, and to prevent deserting, only one man at a time was to go ashore. While there Mr. Widenor met a Mr. Rader, of Richmond, Pa., who with a companion had deserted a whaler and were watching for a chance to embark for the California gold fields. The whaler also cruised among the Philippine Islands, and from thence sailed north to the Behring Sea. The crew harpooned many whales in that region. Mr. Widenor with great interest often related to his friends here the exciting incidents connected with the trip which covered over two years. He remarked that at one place in Behring Sea he could look east and see America's snow-capped mountains in Alaska, and gazing to the westward could see the mountain peaks on the shores of Asia. Returning from the whaling cruise he settled in Belvidere in 1850 and engaged in shoemaking, being associated at different times in the retail shoe business with A. B. Searles, Jacob Trester, and in recent years with his son George. Two years ago he was incapacitated for business through failing health and sickness, but up to this time he had been a man of robust health and great activity and was well versed on current topics, always seeking to advance the best interests of the community. He was long a prominent and very useful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this place ; was Justice of the Peace for ten years and also served as a member of the Common Council.

HENRY WIDENER, JR., son of Henry Widener and Mary [Clackner] Widener ; education, common school ; married Prudence Kimball of Riga, N. Y., Mar. 28, 1809 ; farmer ; probably Baptists ; Military Record, served in War of 1812, on Niagara frontier. Probably emigrated from N. J., with his father's family and settled in Chili, N. Y., where he became an extensive farmer, at one time having about six hundred acres under cultivation. He died suddenly. His property seems to have been lost through business complications and indorsements. In the War of 1812 while returning from the Niagara frontier through the woods he was pursued by Indians, he followed the trail on foot, coming to a solitary log house, he sought help, but found only a small child before the fire place, he fled through the back door and finally escaped from his pursuers in the woods. He never heard the fate of the child. Died at Chili, N. Y., Jan. 21, 1837. buried at Fellow's Cemetery, Chili, N. Y. Prudence, his wife died Jan. 7, 1845.

Extract from a sketch of the life of General Josiah Gorgas Chief of Ordnance of the Confederate States. (Furnished by the kindness of his daughter Jessie Gorgas, University, Ala.)

Among the distinguished officers of the Confederate Government, the Chief of Ordnance, General Josiah Gorgas, was probably more highly appreciated by those who had personal or official contact with him than any other chief of Bureau, and at the same time he was less known by the general public. His energy, activity, and great ability impressed all persons who were brought into intercourse with him, and they knew and felt his power. With the general public he was shrinking and modest to the last degree, so that his name was not discussed, and his wonderful capacity was not seen nor felt, except in the active discharge of his duties.

He entered the U. S. Military Academy at West Point on the 1st of July, 1837, at the age of 19 and graduated in the class of 1841. He immediately became an Ordnance officer and served until 1845 when he went to Europe on a leave of absence and returned in 1846 to Watervliet Arsenal.

He went into service in the Mexican War, Mar. 3, 1847, was promoted and made First Lieutenant and was at the siege of Vera Cruz, where he served with distinction and had charge of the Ordnance Depot there. He served through the war and in 1853 was in command of Mt. Vernon Arsenal, Ala., where he became acquainted with and married Miss Amelia Gayle, daughter of Ex-Governor John Gayle. He subsequently served at Kennebeck, Me., Charleston, S. C. and, Frankford near Philadelphia. In October, 1860, he was chosen a member of the Ordnance Board and served until April, 1861, when he resigned and cast his lot with the Confederate States, and moved to Ala., and was made Chief of Ordnance by Pres. Davis of the Confederate States, and immediately went to work to supply the wants of the Confederacy. He found the Confederacy wholly lacking in supplies and it was due to his management, energy and skill, that manufacturing plants sprung up, and a skillful system of blockade running established that for a long time defied the vigilance of the northern army and navy officers. He established agents in Europe and provided arms and ammunition for the armies in the field. After the siege of Vicksburg Gen. Grant was glad to exchange his old muskets for the more modern ones captured from the Confederates.

Prof. J. W. Mallet of the University of Virginia, who as a Lieutenant Colonel, served with Gen. Gorgas, says, "I believe it may be safely claimed that General Gorgas created and managed the most efficient Bureau of the Confederate War Department ; that Bureau which was based upon the most scanty resourses at the outset, which was called upon to respond to the most special, the most varied and the most urgent demands and which was developed to the highest degree of efficiency, in spite of the serious difficulties arising from the ever shifting conditions imposed by the events of the war."

President Davis in his book says, "The Chief of Ordnance was Gen. J. Gorgas, a man remarkable for his scientific attainments, for the highest administrative capacity and moral purity, all crowned by zeal and fidelity to his trusts in which he achieved results greatly disproportioned to the means at his command."

After the war Gen. Gorgas went to Alabama, where he became Superintendent of the Briarfield Iron Works and reconstructed them and while there became Vice Chancellor of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tennessee, and in 1877 he was elected President of the University of Alabama, and removed to Tuskaloosa. The General's health failed and he died at Tuskaloosa, Ala., May 15, 1883. Suitable honors were paid his mortal remains—faculty, students and a large concourse of citizens reverently and affectionately assisted in the last sad rites which commited his dust to earth.

In his personal life, General Gorgas was careful and regular in the performance of his duties, cultivated, simple in his tastes and modest in his deportment, faithful to his family and friends, upright and honorable in all his dealings.

(The original sketch was published at Richmond, Va., 1885.)

ABRAHAM WEIDNER, born 1746, probably Germany, son of George Adam Weidener and Dorothy Weidener (probably.) The old German Bible belonging (probably to this family) is still in the family and the following dates and names were taken therefrom. The writing is in old German. There is also a part of the Lord's Prayer and a verse written in German. The book is doubtless of great age. The names are spelled "Witner" and "Weidner." The name Adam W. appears on the first page, which doubtless is the Adam who lived and died in Berks Co., Pa. (See this name in another part.) The above died Apr. 17, 1807.

JACOB WIDENER.

Jacob Widener was born in Franklin Co., Pa., Apr. 9, 1809. His father came from Germany, but what part is not known. The name of Jacob seems to be a favorite in the Widener family, his father and grandfather bearing the patriarchal name of Jacob. The father of the subject of this sketch married in Pennsylvania, an estimable and thrifty Irish girl. Both these nationalities were prominent in the blood of Jacob. He possessed the keen wit and hopefulness of the Irish and shrewdness and caution of the German. He was a born counselor of men, slow and careful in coming to a decision and immovable when he knew he was in the right. In early life he was a tanner, and followed this time honored occupation at Strasburg, Pa. His school priviliges were limited, but by unremitting industry and watching the opportunities he managed to secure a fair education between his hours of work and sleep. He was married to Margaret Fahnestock in Oct., 1834, at Landisburg, Pa. On Dec. 24, 1835, a son came to brighten the lives of these happy young people and was given the name of William Fahnestock. In the Spring of 1836, with the babe they journeyed by wagon, passing at times through the virgin forests, following only the cut on the trees, reaching the vicinity of Covington, Ohio, late in the fall of the same year. In the now great State of Ohio he found great opportunities for fortune and advancement which his ambitious nature desired. He taught school in the country for an insignificant sum which kept the wolf from the door during the winter and paved the way for the future of his family.

On Sept. 22, 1845, another son came to them and was given the name of Jacob and who carried on the same line of business as his father, entering the tin shop at an early age. By close attention to business he also amassed a competency. His health failing he was forced to retire at an age when he was only beginning to enjoy real life. The first death in the family occurred Dec. 4, 1852, at Troy, Ohio,—William Fahnestock Widener. He had given unusual promise of ability, but never was strong. Death came as a merciful release even at his tender years. His father was at the time County Recorder.

In 1837 the Christian Church of Covington was organized and he became one of the charter members, of which there were seven. The now magnificent church, for a small community, contains a memorial window on which his name is inscribed. In Aug., 1840, a daughter was born and named Catharine, who is now the wife of R. Cantwell, one of the editors of the Covington Gazette. Mr. Widener was a Democrat in politics, and through all the years of his life remained faithful to the principals of that party. During the Civil War, like others, he suffered from the position a portion of that party took on the questions agitating the country at that fearful time. Notwithstanding his political opinions he was elected Justice of the Peace, and made a record for fairness. His fellow townsmen frequently selected him to administer estates. In 1850 Miami County was largely Whig and having served as Postmaster under President Polk, he was nominated by his party for Recorder and elected. He was renominated and elected by one of the largest majorities ever given in the County, in 1850, which was evidence of his efficiency in the office. At the conclusion of his term he removed to Versailles, O., and became a dry goods merchant and conducted a tannery. In 1866 he returned to Covington and started a hardware business, which he continued until his death, Aug. 12, 1882, at the ripe age of 73. (From manuscript of R. Cantwell, Esq., Covington, Ohio.)

JOHN T. WIDENER of Topeka, Kans., has relics that once belonged to George Washington ; among them being two sets of solid silver spoons and one large soup ladle with the initials of George Washington engraved on the handles ; also a large pocketbook once owned by George Washington.

These relics came in direct line from his great grand uncle, who kept a hotel in Philadelphia when the seat of government was there and Washington had a private room in his hotel and boarded there part of the time. Besides these relics that were owned by George Washington he has quite a number of other old relics that came from the same source ; he has twenty-eight in all : The Ulster County Gazette, of January 4, 1800, giving the account of Washington's death. The spoons mentioned above were a present from Washington to his great-grand uncle. Two papers written on parchment, one in 1718, one 1742, from King George II, and the one from King George III. Some are grants of land to the Penns. An old English Bible printed in 1772 : some other old books printed in 1769. The wills of his great-grandfather and mother and two gold rings about 140 years old. Four patent deeds signed by their own handwriting, one by Madison, one by Monroe, one by Andrew Jackson, one by Martin Van Buren ; one pocketbook made in 1760, and Washington's in 1772.

ZACHARY TAYLOR WIDENER, born Nov. 13, 1853, at Pierceton, Kosciusko Co., Ind. ; son of Willis Widener ; education, high school ; married Hettie Waterman of Corning, Iowa, Jan. 18, 1882 ; dry goods merchant ; church, Congregational ; fraternal societies, F. & A. M., K. of P. ; Republican ; Member of School Board for 10 years ; address, Corning, Iowa. Lived in Indiana with my parents until I was 20 years old then I emigrated to Ills. in 1875. Worked in a dry goods store for five years then I came to Iowa, my present location in 1886. Have been here ever since. Have been a member of the Congregational Church ever since and Superintendent of the Sunday School for ten years.

My father, Willis Widner, died in 1873 in Kosciusko Co., Ind., where I was born in 1853. My father came to Ind. from Columbus, Ohio, in 1851, with his wife and seven children. My uncle, John Widener died in 1875. Father had two other brothers, Joseph and Henry, he also had three sisters, one lived and died near Columbus, Ohio, one in Clinton, Ind., the other in Hardin Co. Iowa. I remember several years ago, perhaps about 1874, of a brother of my father, John Widener, telling me that the Widener family first landed in the City of Philadelphia from Germany and the date he did not have but perhaps sometime during the 18th century. Sometime later the Widener family or a part of them moved westward to Ohio, in south of Columbus in what is called the Sciota Country or Sciota Bottoms. I think called so by virtue of the Sciota River running through that country. I think I remember also of my father mentioning the Little Darby and Big Darby River in connection with that country. There is still, I think, some remnants of this family in that part. My Grandfather, Joseph Widener, I think that was his name, died when father was five years old, that would be about the year 1815 as my father was born in 1810. I remember of hearing father say that he lived with an uncle several years after his father died, who run a big distillery in Ohio. I think his name was Jacob Widner, spelled in those days with one E. There were four or five brothers in my Grandfathers family Jacob, Henry and Joseph but I am not certain as to the other name but I am quite creditably informed they were all well-to-do men in Ohio, south of Columbus.

DEATH OF A FORMER CITIZEN OF ALLENTOWN.

Thomas Breinig Weidner, a well known citizen of Lower Sancon Township, Northampton County, died near Colesville on Saturday, Feb. 6, in the 63rd year of his age. He was born in Lower Millford Township, Nov. 26, 1823. When 14 years of age he entered the store of George Steinman, at Steinsburg, in the capactity of a clerk. Later he occupied a clerkship in his uncle's, Jacob Breinig, store, at Breinigsville, Lehigh County. After leaving Brenigsville, he served as a clerk for a number of years in Philadelphia with a gentleman named Parker. He came to Allentown, where he associated himself with the late Major Thomas Yeager in the general merchandise business under the firm name of Yeager and Weidner. They continued in business for a number of years, until the great fire of 1848, when, with many others, they were completely burned out. He again engaged in business for himself and later formed a co-partnership with Henry J. Saegar, doing business under the firm name of Saegar and Weidner. In 1856 they closed out their business, when he moved to Sancon Township, where he followed farming up to the time of his demise. He was a charter member of the Lehigh County Agricultural Society. He had been suffering from a complication of diseases for several years, which finally terminated in dropsy and caused his death. Mr. Weidner leaves a wife and eight children, five sons ; Reuben, Ervin, David, Henry and William and three daughters ; Ellen, Aline and Jennie. He was an active member of the Trudensville Church, and his funeral took place there on Friday morning at ten o'clock.

GEORGE D.,
JOSEPH E.

HON. PETER ARRELL BROWN WIDENER.

He is a descendant of Revolutionary stock on his mother's side, his Grandfather being Capt. Fulmer, who served on the staff of General Washington. Both his father and mother were natives of Philadelphia. His father, John Widener, was born in the year 1791 and in early life was engaged in freighting goods between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, but in later years was a brick manufacturer. He died at Philadelphia in 1875, his wife also died in the same year at the advanced age of eighty-two years.

Mr. Widener received his early education in the public and high schools of his native city, where he acquired those habits of industry which have characterized his subsequent career. During his school days he learned the printer's trade, but he turned his attention to the meat packing business immediately upon going into business for himself, on a limited scale, and gradually extending his business as he acquired more capital, in which he was very successful.

In the year 1862 he was impressed with the possibilities of development in the matter of Street Railways, and commenced systematically to study the matter from a business and speculative stand point. In 1864, he withdrew from the packing business, having had some experience and acquired much information, he turned his entire attention to Street Railways. In this undertaking he was frequently associated with William L. Elkins of Philadelphia, now deceased, Wm. H. Kemble, Thomas F. Ryan, Wm. C. Whitney, Judge J. H. Reed of Pittsburg, Chas. T. Yerkes of Chicago, and H. H. Vreeland of New York.

Mr. Widener has now been in the Street Railway business for upwards of forty years and by gradual acquisitions has became one of the largest holders of the securities and stocks of these corporations in the United States, if not in the world. He has a thorough knowledge of all that pertains to street railways, both practical and speculative. By the exercise of rare good judgment in manipulating old properties and constructing new lines he has accumalated a large fortune and is a multimillionare and ranks with any of the great capitalists of this country or the old world. What the Vanderbilts and Goulds are in the history of Steam Roads, Mr. Widener is to Street Railways. He is a large holder of the stocks of several manufacturing corporations and financial institutions.

In person Mr. Widener is a typical American, modest in demeanor and retiring in disposition. He is broad minded and public spirited and has always found time to take part in public enterprises connected with his native city, and has contributed without stint to its charities.

He has dedicated to Philadelphia the "Widener Memorial Library," also the "Widener Memorial for the training of Crippled Children," which, with its fine buildings contains about thirty-five acres of land and is situated on the Old York Road between Olney and Summerville.

He has traveled extensively abroad and is a close observer of men and affairs. In politics Mr. Widener has always been a Republican, having cast his first vote for General John C. Fremont. He still takes an active interest in politics and stands high in the counsels of his party.

Mr. Widener's home is in Philadelphia and he has one of the finest country residences in America, "Ogantz," P. O. address, Elkins Park, where he has a rare and valuable collection of masterpieces, which it has been his good fortune to obtain in this country and abroad. The family also have a beautiful villa at Newport, where it is customary for some of the members to spend the season each year. Mr. Widener takes time during his busy life to devote to social matters and often entertains his friends lavishly and takes great pleasure in exhibiting his art treasures and rare collections.

Traditions and Statements from the manuscripts of Hon. P. A. B. Widener, Philadelphia, Pa.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 8, 1902.

I have two brothers, Paul and Joseph, in America, and have not heard from them for some years. I was born in Schwetz, W. Prussia.

Bernhard B. Wiedner,

New York, N. Y., Mar. 5, 1902.

My Grandmother's name was Christena Widener, born in Pa., Dec. 5, 1787 ; she had a brother Michael, and sisters Mary and Elizabeth. Christena married Daniel Musselman, Oct. 6, 1804. They emigrated to Ohio and to Indiana in 1818. My mothers name is Caroline M. Taylor.

Christena M. Rodd,
444 St. Nicholas Ave.

Morgantown, Berks Co., Pa., Feb. 20, 1902.

I have an old Dutch Bible, published at Germantown, in 1743, John Weidner's children born from 1782 to 1796 are recorded in it. It is an old relic and in good condition. At the death of John Weidner it was given to Peter Weidner and when Peter died it came into the possession of my father, David W. Himes and I have it now.

Margaretta Himes.

Arkansas City, Kans., Mar. 8, 1900.

My father was born in New Jersey or New York and had relatives in what was called the "Lake Country" in New York when I was a boy. My father's name was John Widener, but the first "e" was dropped and spelled "Widner." He lived nearly all his life in Sussex Co., N. J., near Lafayette and Newton, but when I was about eighteen years of age we moved to W. Va., where father died. I have been in the west since and lost track of my relatives. When I was a boy, a cousin of mine from New York visited us and as I remember, his name was John Widener or Widner (see page 84.)

Chas. F. Widner,
902 N. Second St.

Wrightsville, Pa., Feb. 3, 1902.

My name is Henry Widner and my father's name was Michael M. Widner. Several of my father's relatives lived in Germantown many years ago. Some of the Widener's settled in Ohio. I served four years in the Civil War and my present age is 71 years.

Henry Widner.

Freeport, Ill., Nov. 9, 1896.

I was born in Pennsylvania, near Gettysburg, when I was five years old my father settled near Dayton, Ohio. I have often heard him say that there were three brothers in his family. Father, whose name was William, and his brother Abraham came west and the third brother moved to Philadelphia. The family of Abraham still live in Ohio near Troy as well as the balance of our family.

Isaac O. Widener.

Terre Haute, Ind.

My grandfather's sister Mary Wilkins married Judge John Widener who lived in Vincennes. They had a son John who married Catherine Shepard, their daughter Cassandre married a Mr. Blackburn, Elizabeth married into the James K. Polk family. Mary married a Mr. Macy. My father was Judge Andrew Wilkins, a descendant of the Virginia branch of the Pennsylvania

Wilkinses.

Lida Wilkins Merrill,
1220 South Eighth St.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 11, 1900.

My father's name was Jacob D. Widener, born in Hagerstown, Md., in 1802, emigrated to Ohio, in 1833. I was informed that father had two brothers Samuel and Peter and a sister Betsey who married a Mr. Clippinger and they lived at Carlisle, O. I married Dr. Peters who practiced in Baltimore, O.

Margaret Peters,
29 W. Goodale St.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 11, 1899.

My father's name was Jacob D. Widener. He parted from his only brother in Virginia and settled on a farm near Lancaster, Ohio. I have heard father say his brother settled in some place in Pennsylvania.

Capt. W. J. Widener.

Independence, Mo., Feb. 26, 1902.

My husband's name is Peter Widener, he was born in Ohio in 1860, his parents being of German descent. His father's name was John Widener, born in Pennsylvania and had several brothers, Samuel, George, and Peter, John Widener was killed in the Civil War.

Mrs. Peter Widener.

My grandfather on my mother's side was John Widener, who was born in Pennsylvania.

John W. Polk.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 15, 1898.

My father's name was John Widener, being the younger of a family of four children. My Grandfather's name was George

Widener and he emigrated from Pennsylvania to Ohio in an early day, and settled in Butler County, from there to Vermillion County, Ill., then to Ind., where he died in 1888, aged seventy years. (See page 279.)

Sarah E. Widener,
803 W. Wabash Ave.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 2, 1901.

My great grandfather, Leonard Widner, pronounced Widener, and spelled so by some of the family here, was born in Germany in 1738 or '39 and came to America with his parents when young.

They landed at Philadelphia, settled at Woodbridge, N. J., and afterwards removed to the Old Log Jail, now called Johnsonburg. He had several brothers, Jacob who married Mary Clackner, and died in N. J., Henry who married Jacob's widow and immigrated in 1800 to this county, Michael who fought in the Revolution in the Sussex Co., New Jersey troops, and afterward removed to Presque Isle, now Erie, Pa., where he died in 1812. In the "thirties" a John Widner came to this county on a visit from New Jersey, he was supposed to be a nephew of Leonard Widener. (See page 80 and 97.)

The preparation, arranging and printing this collection has taken much time, and has been under way for over five years, and I hope its errors and incomplete condition will be looked upon with charity, and what there is will be appreciated. Several errors have been noticed that have escaped the eye of the proof reader, but mostly clerical, and are not misleading. Where errors in names are discovered all that I can say, is the copy was followed carefully and I did the best I could without returning the proof to the parties, which was entirely out of the question.

H. H. WIDENER.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan., 1906.

INDEX.

The names are indexed in the order in which they occur. The wives are indexed under their maiden names and husbands are separately indexed. The names are not arranged according to second letter. In looking for a name go through the list.
